This event opened as a Harmonious Unification Hanmadang Festival, through a series of performances given by a girl group with members of multicultural families and other invited singers. Vice-Chairman Gil-Nam Park of the central committee for this Vision Rally served as the host for this occasion, and following the performances, there was the opening ceremony, recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance to Korea, introduction of VIPs, welcoming address given by the Yongman Region Commission Chairman Hyeong-Jeong Kim, congratulatory addresses given by Bulguksa Temple Head Monk Seong-Ta and National Assembly member Jae-Jung Yu of the Liberty Korea Party (from Suyeong-gu), watching a film titled, "The Path Towards Harmony and Unification, Through True Love for the Sake of Others," the keynote address given by the central committee chairman for this Vision Rally Kyeong-Seuk Lu, the adoption of declarations for harmonious unification and three cheers led by the Yongnam Region Commission Chairman Seung-II Lee.

As part of the welcoming address, Commission Chairman Hyeong-Jeong Kim stated, "With the economic growth rate remaining at the 2% range for several years, along with being in a continual state of crisis due to low birth rates and an aging society, we held this Vision Rally to provide an opportunity for us as a united Korea, to concentrate our national capabilities to take a big leap forward in overcoming our present situation... I sincerely hope for all patriotic citizens to actively take part in this."

Kyeong-Seuk Lu (FFWPU Korea President), the chairman of the central committee for this Vision Rally, expressed, "On May 9, through the 19th presidential election, a new president was elected, and Korea has come to stand on a new starting point... FFWPU will set this as a time of revolutionary change for the realization of 'Korea's hope' by the year, 2020. For this, we established the five core tasks of the expansion of God's tribal messiahs, the continual cultivation of future leaders, realization of happy family-centered communities, putting it into practice in daily life and religious culture, and the realization of peace on the Korean peninsula."

Chairman Lu emphasized, "This is the expression of our steadfast will, and the concentration of all of our hopes, for going towards true prosperity and peace, the path towards realizing peace on the Korea peninsula, and the path towards 'One Korea' for the future of our people... Let us go forth in making this new hope of Korea into a reality."

Head Buddhist Monk Seong-Ta, as the host from Bulguksa Temple, stated, "Humankind historically has continued to live on, while having the hope of 'harmony and unification'... This comes to provide a counter-proof of how much human history was that of continuous war and strife. We have not gathered here today to hate or resent someone, but for the true harmony and unification of this country... I sincerely express my respect and gratitude for this rally, and how much the purpose of this rally means to me, with that one of becoming one centering on a vision and ideals that go beyond oneself, as how Jesus said to 'love your enemies' or 'forgive those whom you hate.'"

National Assembly member Jae-Jung Ryu of the Liberty Korea Party (from Suyeong-gu) who gave a congratulatory address, emphasized, "Peace and unification are universal values of all humankind, ideals that have been sought after throughout history... Peace and unification are the hopes we have held onto in our hearts for the 70-plus years our people have been divided. They are the virtues that will allow 'us,' formed by 'you' and 'me' to live on together."

Marking the beginning of these Harmonious Unification Vision Rallies on April 30 with the metropolitan region (Seoul, Incheon, Gyeonggi-do and Gangwon-do) combined rally, these rallies will continue to be held with the Yongnam Region rally (held today at the BEXCO (Busan Exhibition Center), the Honam Region rally on May 28 (to be held at the Gwangju Kim Dae Jung Center), the Chungcheong Region rally on June 4 (to be held at Sun Moon University, located in Asan-si, Chungcheongnam-do), and at the Youth and Students Rally on June 3 (to be held at Imjingak, located in Paju-si, Gyeonggi-do), with over 12,000 participants from the five regions of Korea.
