Today I found this that I wrote in 2002, and want to share it with you:

In the springtime, when our hearts are turning to love, and beauty, I'd like to report to the nation about a time when True Father expressed his love for American women.

It was the day of the 20th anniversary of the Washington Times, last May [May 21, 2002]. Father was in DC for the celebration. At the Sheraton on the 15th floor, for Hoon Dok Hae, Libby and I came early and we were able to sit on the floor before True Parents in the second row directly behind Mrs. Confucius and the wives of the religious leaders in spirit world.

As Father was talking, suddenly he stepped through them and was standing right over Libby and me. He said, "God has so much love to give, but he can't give it unless he has an object." He said, "American women are princesses." He pulled his hands across his chest like he was opening his heart to pour love on us. He said we will live together with him in his house forever. He said American women are so important to the world because we influence the world through the arts.
