

The visit of the Special Emissary Rev. SA to Italy

Milano, Italy, 15. – 18. January 2015

We were happy to receive the True Mother's special emissary Rev Kwang Kee Sa. He started his tour in Rome, where he could meet the community and give an inspiring speech to the members. Particularly good was the participation of the 2nd generation. On Friday, together with the National leader they travelled by train to Milano. On Saturday he gave another speech to the members of the Milano's community. On Sunday, he gave the main speech during the Sunday service in Bergamo, in front of a full packed hall with members and some guests. Particularly pleasant was the atmosphere during lunches, together with some of the main leaders of church and providential organizations, where he could give precious guidance to everybody.

The content of the speeches he gave, was very inspiring to everybody, going through several fundamental aspects of our life of faith. First, the position of Tribal messiah that is not temporary as any other public mission, but will remain until we live. Due to mobilizations, in the past, we could not take care of our families and environment, but now the time has come to establish a strong foundation, by witnessing and testifying about True Parents. Then, the importance to understand the birthright. For two thousand years Christians could not understand this very key providential concept, but, thank to True Parents, we can have a clear vision about it. The formula course was supposed to be completed as preparation for receiving the Messiah and his Blessing. The first part was to find three spiritual children, to restore the realm of the Archangel. These spiritual children had to follow True Parents absolutely and follow us in restoring the world. The main purpose of the Messiah is to find a pure spouse, the new Eve. Once True Mother was chosen, all other Eves had to unite with her. This is a fundamental passage in the restoration of the birthright. Then all husbands unite with their spouse receiving the holy wine and resurrection from them.

He spoke then about the role of True Children and Blessed children, to build the future. We are all aware of the major problems in this respect, but we have to keep faith and go ahead with complete unity with True Parents. He encourage us to build a new foundation, starting from completing the goal of witnessing, to restore the three Archangels and following restoring the tribe, by centering on True Love.

I was particularly happy for many reasons. First, this review of the role and mission of the Blessed Families was refreshing and stimulating. It was helpful to focus more on the internal meaning of our role, strengthening our desire to witness. The Principle view it has always the effect to push away doubts and misunderstanding, by clarifying the Providential work and our role in it. It was like going through many years of sacrifices, evaluating good and bad points of our effort and finally coming to the point that now we have to win the last battle for the building of the CIG.

I found very comforting the several moments of personal sharing, together with Rev. Sa and other main leaders, opening our hearts as true brothers and sisters, expressing our difficulties, but also our hopes and commitment to support True Parents in this very crucial time. Once again, I felt that, when we able to put aside judgments, doubts and differences, we can naturally be a family under the same God and True Parents, sharing a common vision and tradition. This should be our strength in this time.
