

Catching up with Kevin Convery

Kevin Convery

January 18, 2012

After graduating from Unification Theological Seminary in 1984, I went to Chattanooga, Tennessee to work as a Unification Church center director and with CAUSA. My daughter, Igraine Convery, was born there in 1988. During those busy years my 'art career' developed; it began with me painting at flower stands. In 1987 I was given an art show at the University of Tennessee. The subjects of the paintings centered around "Mythology and the Human Condition." In 1993 I began working on the manuscript for "The Golden Thread – Reflections on Myth and Memory," which would not be published for another 17 years.

In 1993 with my wife, Sukhont Convery, and my daughter, I moved to Moscow, Russia. I spent four years there working as art director for 'The Curriculum Project', creating textbooks for the Russian school system based in Divine Principle.

In 1997 we returned to my home state of Pennsylvania where I now work as a public school teacher. I have published two books, "The Golden Thread..." and "Travels on the Night Sea – An Inner Journey Through a Changeful Era." I often do art exhibits and sometimes give lectures around the Philadelphia area.

Kevin Convery

The Golden Thread- Reflections on Myth And Memory

In December, 2011 The Unification Theological Seminary Library purchased a book called "The Golden Thread – Reflections on Myth and Memory" by Kevin Convery. The book, which includes thirty paintings in color, is a reflection on the inner legacy of European mythology and its connection to modern life issues. It can also be viewed at www.mythicgold.com

This is very meaningful since the seeds of inspiration for this book took root almost thirty years ago at Barrytown while Kevin was working as editor for 'Passages of Heart – Poetry of The Unification Movement' and doing a book cover for Young Oon Kim (Types of Modern Theology). Kevin graduated in 1984 with a Master of Divinity. Life, indeed, is a long circle!

Kevin Convery

619 Princeton Avenue
Philadelphia, PA 19111