Back in Action

School's back in session, and CARP chapters are in full swing! After a busy summer, our students are already active with Club Fairs (Bay Area pictured above) and even a few first CARP meetings of the semester.

But first, a quick look back...

This August, National CARP hosted the annual Momentum Leadership Retreat for chapter leaders to intentionally prepare for this semester. This year, we hosted one on the East Coast and one on the West Coast, serving over 100 students.

Chapter leaders got first access to new CARP Curriculum content and practical training to set personal and chapter goals.

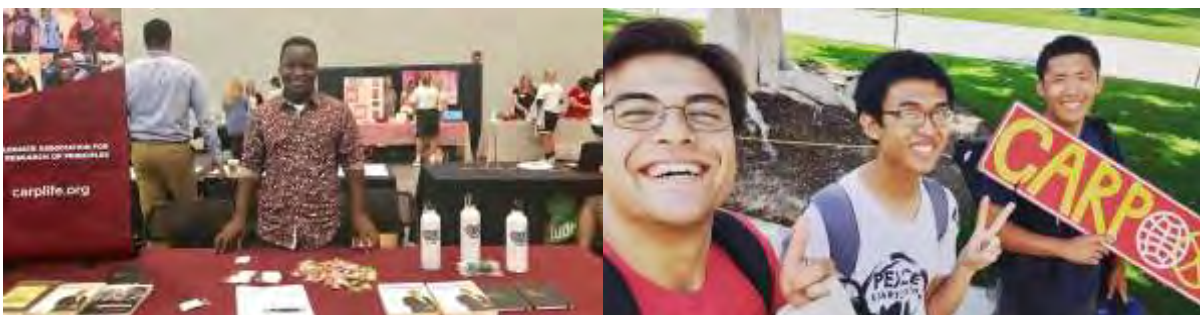

"This whole experience was amazing, and it definitely created more momentum in preparation for the upcoming semester. I felt extremely supported through the process of creating a vision and learning about the curriculum." - Jinka Kawasaki, Sophomore, Cypress College

Check it out!

Are you a college student in need of regular Principled nourishment and a community you can talk to?

College can be lonely if you don't have any peers who share the same Principled viewpoint as you. Not only that, college can make our beliefs seem strange. The college environment bombards us daily with very unprincipled ideas and beliefs which can be incredibly discouraging.

Not to fear!

Introducing “Empower Hour!” Every other week, CARP will host a weekly online call to connect with a powerful Principled presenter to share on topics relevant to you and your life as a college student!

The topics will alternate between Internal Guidance to uplift your spiritual life and the new CARP Curriculum based on Headwing thought. The CARP Curriculum is a series of presentations that address the confusion of values and ideologies in society tied to current social issues and that present the Principled perspective on those topics.

Empower Hour will be every other Monday at 9pm EST.

Here is the calendar of topics for this semester (TBA):

9/2 - CARP Curriculum: “Worldview”
presented by Christine Froehlich

Stay connected!

In addition to Empower Hour, we would also like to offer online small groups! The small group is a place for you to connect with other college students from around the country (maybe even world?!) and check in about how you've been doing and share insights from the last Empower Hour talk.

Small groups will meet on the off week when there isn't an Empower Hour talk. In these meetings, you will check in by sharing about how your week was as well as discuss the content from the last Empower Hour. We will provide discussion questions!

If you are interested in joining a small group, sign up below:

Resources

What We Offer

In response to a culture that is focused on helping oneself, local student leaders are creating a culture that models living for the sake of others and promotes cooperation and understanding. These students are passionate and inspired to make a positive impact that results in a long-lasting, fulfilling lifestyle for every member of their community. As students, however, they are limited in their experience and resources. The National CARP staff supports the local chapter efforts and students by providing the resources and support.

Some examples of our resources:

Chapter Visits

Our national team love visiting local chapters and attending their events!

Principled Educational Materials

Thanks to our mentors, we developed

Our students are the real heroes, and we treasure any and all face time with them.

educational materials for students to use in CARP talks and events to explain the CARP perspective on history, education, media, love, and marriage, and more.

Email jennifer@carplife.org for more information.

Weekly Calls

Throughout the school year, we host calls on Monday nights at 9 PM Eastern.

This year, we're hosting two types of calls:

1. Chapter Support Calls
2. Empower Hour for College Students

If you are starting a chapter or are leading a chapter, email jennifer@carplife.org to join the support calls!

If you are a college student looking for ways to enrich your college experience, sign up for Empower Hour! Click here!
