Greetings from WFWP UK President

As the President of our NGO I am delighted to welcome you to our summer newsletter.

This season marks a time of growth and renewal and our organisation is no exception. Thanks to the support of our dedicated members and partners, we have achieved significant progress in our mission to empower women as peacebuilders and leaders in the family and to transform our communities and the nation. We look forward to continuing this important work.

In the coming months we have several exciting initiatives planned including our newly launched internship programme aimed at the speech contest graduates. In addition we continue to develop the Artist for Peace children's creative programme.

We are pleased to announce that the European website has been launched. Please visit us on:

<https://www.wfwp-europe.org/> . It will serve us as a hub for information about our programmes and events.

None of this would be possible without the tireless efforts of our coordinators, volunteers and staff. Their dedication and commitment to our cause is truly inspiring and I am grateful for their contributions.

As we move forward, I encourage each of you to get involved in our efforts in whatever way you can. Whether it's through volunteering, donating, or simply spreading the word about our organisation, every action you take helps us to make a difference.

Thank you for your continued support, and I look forward to working with all of you to create positive change in our community and beyond.

Sincerely

Mitty Tohma

WFWPI Presidential Transition Ceremony

Thank you Dr Julia Moon and Dr Sun Jin Moon
Welcome Mrs Moriko Hori

In February 2023, a change in the leadership of the Women's Federation for World Peace was officially announced. It was sad to say goodbye to our International President and Senior Vice President, but at the same time, with excitement, we look forward to the new winds of change that will be brought to the organization. For this occasion, on March 10, WFWPI held the Presidential Transition Ceremony gathering 783 people on Zoom and YouTube.

The ceremony was divided into two programmes, including acknowledgments of Dr. Julia Moon and Dr. Sun Jin Moon, and the introduction of Mrs. Moriko Hori. Mrs. Kefilwe Lebepe, the moderator of the event and team leader of the WFWPI Young Professionals Team, first gave the floor to International Secretary General Dr. Paris Moon, who officially opened the event and introduced the outgoing leaders with words of gratitude for the years they have served together in WFWPI.

Mrs. Moriko Hori thanked the former presidents for building a strong foundation during the most difficult period in WFWP history, the COVID-19 pandemic, and said she was determined to follow in their footsteps and make the organization even stronger so that they can be proud. She added, "There are countless challenges and difficulties in the world, but as WFWP, we must create peace. The strong point of WFWP is that we have 127 chapters around the world, creating a wonderful international community, as one large entity that we can contribute to the world. I have been able to visit many developing countries and meet children and people whose lives have hope and a future because of WFWP projects. Peace is within us, and when we are happy and peaceful, our families will be peaceful, and eventually, our communities, countries and the world will be in peace. So I would like to ask you to bring peace within us, and expand it to your family and your community."

NO PEACE without WOMEN

2nd annual conference
13th June 2023
Kosovo

The second conference in the series of 'No Peace Without Women' was held on 13th June 2023 at the Parliament in Pristina, Kosovo. Sponsors and partners were the Kosovo Office of the Prime Minister and the EUME branches of WFWP, WFWPI UN Office, UPF, and the International Association of First Ladies for Peace (IAFLP).

The conference opened with an address from the Prime Minister of Kosovo, HE Albin Kurti, who had excused himself from an urgent meeting on the situation in the north of Kosovo to do so. HE Liza Gashi, Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs and HE Emilia Redžepi, Deputy Prime Minister were also speakers and played critical roles in the preparations and in extending invitations to Members of Parliament. The event was attended by 120 leaders, 12 of whom were Ambassadors from different nations of Europe and the Balkans, with over 20 media outlets covering the event.

The conference was a great success and a model of peace and reconciliation process through women, that aims to be propagated further. A safe space was created in a tense region where women could speak honestly of their scars- and conclude that working together for peace and mutual development was the only solution. As the series theme alludes, women must and can take a leading role in defining a new mindset, on solving differences through dialogue, reconciliation, and shared development plans, rather through violence, enmity and hate.

Besides those attending from the region, First Ladies, former presidents, government ministers, members of parliament, business and financial leaders, and youth, there were messages of concern and support coming from the Head of the UN Economic Commission for Europe in Geneva, Olga Algayerova, and Nobel Laureate, Ellen Sirleaf Johnson. Sally Becker, a humanitarian aid worker credited with saving hundreds of children's lives during the Kosovo war, returning for the first time, was one of the speakers. She captivated the audience with her testimony, including being imprisoned and shot. Her unwavering commitment to forgiveness and peace resonated with everyone, many of whom had experienced the trauma of war in their immediate surroundings.

The founder of WFWP and UPF, Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, is presently calling for a greater focus on peace education for mothers. It is mothers who naturally shape the values and beliefs of their children, wherein lies the hope of instilling a culture of peace that starts in the home, and promote the shared leadership between women and men. This is especially important in countries like Kosovo, where traditional family values are deeply ingrained.

The 'No Peace without Women' conference has received strong support from political leaders, providing evidence of the growing recognition of the need to involve women in peace processes and helping to amplify the voices of women regarding the importance of a holistic approach to establish more inclusive and sustainable peace agreements. Participants returning to their nations throughout the Balkans were already anticipating a next "No Peace without Women" event and campaign in their region.

Faith, Family and Future

The Voice of Women

3rd Annual Conference – Women, Faith and Family

The Women, Faith and Family Conference is an annual event that brings together women of different faiths to discuss topics related to family, relationships and spirituality. The conference is designed to provide a forum for women to connect and learn from one another, as well as to hear from experts in the field. It is a celebration of the power and resilience of women, and a testament to the importance of community in our lives.

On June 20, the WFWP UK hosted its annual Women, Faith and Family conference online on the theme of 'Family, Faith and the Future, the Voice of Women'. The event provided a platform for five guest speakers from different faith traditions including Jewish, Hindu, Muslim, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and Sikh.

All expressed their views on the topic according to their own faith perspectives. Their talks were insightful and inspiring. They shared their experiences, challenges and successes in nurturing their families. Mothers were identified as key figures in shaping the character and values of their children. All speakers agreed about the need for character education in shaping future generations, including the creation of a more peaceful world, rooted in the culture of heart.

International Women's Day

'Women Making a Difference in our World'

Birmingham - March 3, 2023

Our International Women's Day evening, with the theme of "Women Making a Difference in our World", was attended by about 90 women from a wide variety of backgrounds. More than 20 ladies were joining us for the first time. We were very happy to have Mrs Mitty Tohma with us, the current President of WFWP for Europe and the Middle East. She gave a brief overview of local, national and international WFWP activities.

We then had 4 main speakers:

Amelia, Gabrielle, Nasim and Niti.

Amelia spoke of the difficulty she had with her mother, Monica, leaving home twice, the first time at the age of 16, and about the help and support she received from the local charity, St Basil's, which supports young homeless people. The honesty in Amelia and Monica's relationship ultimately allowed them to reconcile, with Monica taking on a permanent job with St Basil's, helping numerous young people, many of them single parents, to gradually integrate back into society.

Gabrielle had been involved in social work for around 40 years in a variety of settings - local authority, voluntary and independent sectors. For the last 10 years she has helped to develop foster care in 10 different countries, each requiring its own unique approach. She spoke of her experiences in Bulgaria and India, and the range of problems, both structural and cultural, which had to be addressed. In Bulgaria, almost all the children kept in institutions had simply been abandoned, usually from birth. In India, most of the children held in institutions had been lost or abandoned through poverty.

Sister Nasim experienced much trauma in her life, including a very painful divorce, enabling her to empathise with many women who had been through similar experiences. Having realised the need to forgive herself, and also feeling a responsibility towards God and the bigger picture, she founded Lanterns of Light, which allowed her to help and mentor other women. In 2016 she also founded the Lady Zainab project, which has been helping numerous women and orphaned children in Syria, who have been internally displaced as a result of the many years of war there. She thanked Patricia and all the ladies who have supported this project in recent years.

Finally, Niti, a GP of many years standing, and a Managing Partner of Health4All Advisory, described her incredible efforts to establish, or improve, Primary Health Care in countries across the world. Beginning in India, she has also worked in China, Saudi Arabia, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Kazakhstan, the Philippines and created a new opening to healthcare for 17.8 million people in Bangladesh!

During the evening we made a collection for earthquake relief work in northern Syria, raising £600 which was truly wonderful.

After a quiet candle-lit time of reflection, prayer and musical offerings, we enjoyed food and refreshments together, with old friendships renewed and new friendships made, and with conversations continuing late into the night. It was a truly worthwhile and meaningful occasion, which we will remember for a long time.

Leadership of the Heart

Emotional Maturity

The Leadership of the Heart (LOH) curriculum is a comprehensive programme that aims to empower individuals to become powerful leaders through three one-day interactive seminars. The programme is designed to provide participants with the tools to create peace in their lives, families, communities, nations and the world.

The LOH curriculum is based on the universal philosophy of living for the sake of others and living by the logic of love. It emphasizes the importance of knowing and loving oneself from a higher perspective and serving others from a parental or maternal standpoint. It believes that true leadership comes from the heart and is rooted in emotional maturity.

The third seminar in the LOH curriculum focuses on emotional maturity and explores emotional blocks that prevent individuals from becoming effective leaders. Participants gain essential tools to build faith and overcome fear, which are crucial components of emotional maturity. By understanding their emotions and learning how to manage them effectively, individuals can become better leaders and make positive changes in their lives, families, communities and the world.

The LOH curriculum is designed to be wholly transformational, providing participants with the skills and knowledge they need to make a positive impact in the world. The programme emphasizes the importance of personal growth and development as the foundation for effective leadership. It believes that by starting with oneself, individuals can make a difference in their neighbourhood, family, and ultimately, the world.

Selecting Candidates For the YWSC 2023

On Saturday the 8th July, a group of hopeful young women gathered at the Lancaster Gate Peace Centre premises to take part in the branch level stage of the Young Women's Peace Contest, hosted by Central London Women's Peace Federation. Three young women from various backgrounds were entering – Shanshan, a teacher of Mandarin at Queen Mary University, Luciana, a therapist from Brazil and Holly, a physics student from the UK. Each of them had a heartfelt message which they wished to share with the audience. Also present was an enthusiastic group of their friends, who had come to support and cheer them on.

After a welcome by the MC, Anne Kobayashi, and an explanation of how the Speech Contest was initiated, we were given a fascinating introduction to the work of Women's Federation for World Peace by Mrs Mitty Tohma, the UK and European President, emphasizing the investment and dedication of the original members. The three ladies then delivered their speeches, which were of the highest standard, both in the content and in the presentation. Everyone could feel their eloquence and passion.

The outcome of the contest was then deliberated by the two judges, Mrs Helena Stout and Mrs Aniko Rai, during which time refreshments were shared and networking took place, with the winner being announced as Shanshan, the runner-up Holly and Luciana in third place. It was a very close result and not easy to reach that decision.

Finally the prizes were awarded, congratulations were shared and there was much chatting and fellowship.

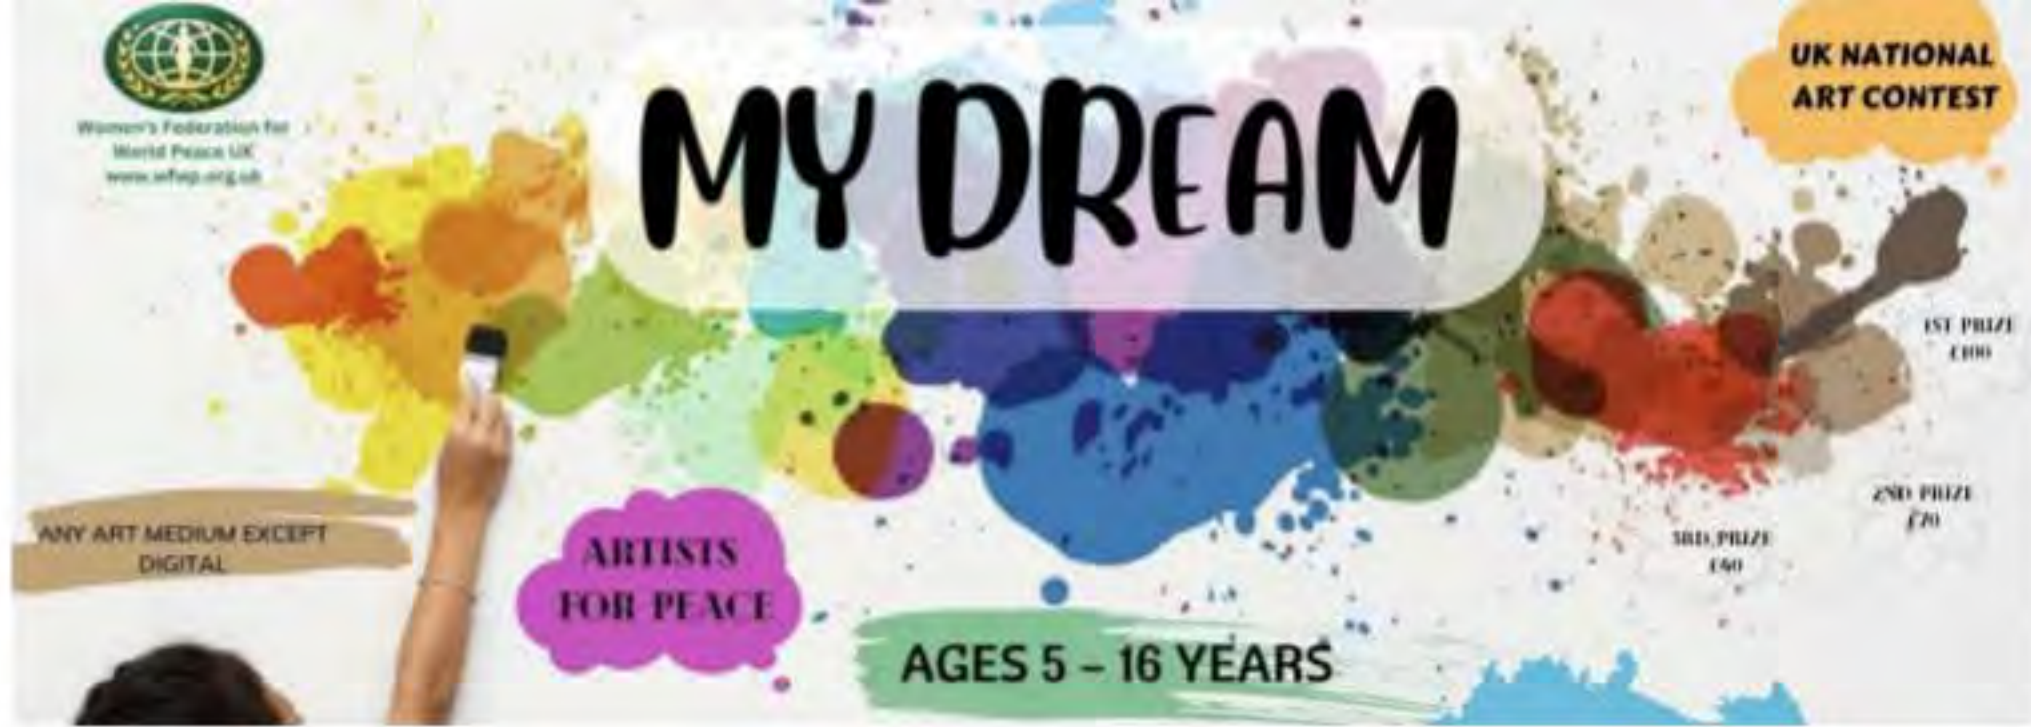

The three ladies confirmed that they had a most uplifting and happy experience and they wish to keep in touch with each other and with WFWP. Also they could gain confidence in public speaking.

Many thanks to all who helped to make the afternoon successful, even in the smallest way

MAKE ART! TAKE PART! WIN A PRIZE!

After the first successful art workshop in South London in May this year, Women's Federation For World Peace organised a second art session for young artists on the afternoon of 24th of June in Cleeve House, Wiltshire as part of the Family Festival hosted by the Family Federation for World Peace.

Run by Ala Zubovskis, manager of the Artists for Peace project and by talented artist Beatriz Lozano, the art workshop was well balanced as a quiet activity after an outdoor fun-filled sport games and an amazing magic show. It was well attended and enjoyed by more than 20 children from 4 to 17 years old, who were able to focus for a long time expressing their creativity on a topic of their choice. Parents pleased with their children's efforts and success asked about the next event. The next art session will be organised in Cleeve House for children attending a family camp at the end of July.

The aim of such art workshops is to promote the Artists For Peace project that runs an annual art contest for children from 5 to 16 years old. By taking part in the contest children will gain more confidence, develop hand-eye coordination and creativity, and most importantly will unleash their inner artist for a chance to win amazing monetary prizes.

Afternoon Tea and Art Exhibition

'In Aid of Afghan refugee Women and Girls in India'

An afternoon tea party and art exhibition was held at the Lygon Arms Hotel in Broadway on Sat 25th March. Forty six people attended including the two guest speakers, Dr Marianne Rankin and WFWP UK Director Mrs Mitty Tohma, and the artist and organiser, Mrs Karen Grant.

A raffle was held of gifts and services donated locally. Four paintings were sold and the total amount raised to support the Afghan ladies was £770.64.

One lady, Dr Rankin's sister, took up membership of WFWP at the introductory offer of £25. Mrs Tohma introduced the organisation and mentioned some of the projects undertaken including interfaith work, peace garden project, bridge of peace ceremonies and humanitarian aid overseas. She spoke a bit about the Afghan project in India. She mentioned about the suffering of men and boys as well as women and girls as a result of war, which affects whole families. Dr Rankin spoke about art and spirituality, the healing aspects of art and of how art helps us to connect more deeply with the beauty of the world around us and similarities and differences between Eastern and Western art. Also that the creative impulse is innate in us all. Dr Rankin has been the Chair of the Alistair Hardy Trust for many years and she mentioned how its founder, a marine biologist, found great comfort through painting and relief from the stresses his job brought him.

Mrs Grant rounded up the afternoon, thanking both speakers and adding the thought that if more people picked up a paint brush there would be fewer wars in the world!

Coronation Champion

Award 2023

In March this year a WFWP lady, Karen Grant, nominated my peace and community activities of the last 30 years for a 'Coronation Champions' award. Queen Camilla, in particular, has been working for some time to promote such activities through the Royal Voluntary Service.

There were about 5,000 nominations across the UK, and 500 were selected by a panel of judges. On April 19th I got an email from the RVS saying that I had been chosen for an award !! About a week later a package arrived in the post containing a beautiful certificate signed by King Charles and Queen Camilla, a special pin to wear, and 2 tickets for the Coronation Concert at Windsor Castle on May 7th. I could hardly believe it. It's very meaningful because so many women have been involved over the years in our WFWP work, especially in our Birmingham Women's Peace Group, coming together on a regular basis, getting rid of fear and prejudice, building friendships, and then joining together in all kinds of ways to do something of benefit for society. I feel the award pays tribute to this as well as the broader work and ideals of WFWP.

I travelled down to Windsor on the 7th, with my husband David, and really enjoyed all the wonderful entertainment which was offered at the concert. We were seated with many of the other Coronation Champions, and I could see that they were all pure hearted people who have been working hard at the community level for the good of society. It was a memorable evening. I think the award will give respect and credibility to our efforts, and I hope that, with time, it will be possible to make our royal couple more aware of the amazing work which we are all doing in the Women's Federation.

News from our Local Branches

LONDON Central

Woman of the Month/Herstory webinar

On the 23rd February WFWP Central London chapter hosted its monthly webinar "Woman of the Month", which features women who are active in doing good things and contributing positively to their various communities.

For February our keynote speaker was DS Krishna Chauhan, a Detective Sergeant and Corporate Services Project Co-ordinator with South Wales Police. Krishna shared with us some fascinating insights into her journey as a young female police officer from BAME background, starting out with the Met Police Service in London and rising to holding a senior ranking as Detective Sergeant, and all the adventures and challenges which that involved. While working hard to become excellent in her profession she also strived to be empathetic and show compassion to those who were in difficult situations. She always tries to build better relationships within hard to reach communities, and is able to do so due to her language skills and cultural knowledge. During the course of her career she has been awarded Chief Constable's Commendation for her work, and she also pioneered the way for other officers from BAME background. Krishna is also a mother and recently became a grandmother. She has always cared for her family whilst carving out an illustrious career pathway.

"The family is a union woven together through love, companionship, kindness, compassion and support" – these words eloquently spoken by Dr Zohra Zaidi perfectly articulated why we should celebrate the family in a special commemoration of the UN International Day of Families. Nearly 50 participants gathered at the Peace Embassy, Thornton Heath, London on 20 May 2023 to join an event co-hosted by the Universal Peace Federation (UPF) and Women's Federation for World Peace (WFWP). The two featured speakers, Dr Zaidi and Dr Nicola Bailey, offered their deep insights on the importance of key values that enable families to thrive and prosper amid the modern challenges of materialism and all-pervasive technology that impact so many areas of our lives.

Dr Bailey stated that our jobs as parents are about providing opportunities for our children to grow and learn so that they become confident, well-rounded, sociable individuals making healthy, happy relationships with others, and to do that they need connectedness, empathy and self-confidence. The vast amounts of time spent on-screen threatens the balance versus face-to-face and physical contact which is needed for children to develop these qualities. She posed a series of questions related ...

Activities report

In March we organised one of our regular Bridge of Peace Ceremonies at the Peace Embassy in Glasgow. This time we had women and men taking part in the event with the aim to make new connections between people of different ethnic and cultural backgrounds. Their newly created friendships will hopefully help to overcome existing barriers between races, religions and nations. After the ceremony, everyone joined in learning a dance from Kazakhstan which spontaneously led to more dance lessons from other Asian countries. The whole event was a very joyful occasion. One of our guests, an Asian women's group leader was very inspired by our goals and vision and wants to work together with WFWP in the future.

In April we organised a craft afternoon where one of our ladies taught how to make lovely Easter and birthday cards from recycled materials. Many of the cards could afterwards be used to raise funds for our future activities.

In May WFWP Scotland held an event in partnership with the charity group MM&I (Me, Myself and I). The local councillor, Martha Wardrop joined 22 participants from diverse national and cultural backgrounds to celebrate the UN International Day of Families.

WATFORD

Watford Peace Garden 10th Anniversary

On July 9th around 100 people gathered in the Watford Peace Garden to celebrate its 10th anniversary. They gathered in front of the Peace Arch. The Deputy Lieutenant of Hertfordshire, the Watford Elected Mayor and MP and other eminent guests praised the initiative and the benefit of the Peace Garden for the community at large. The Vicar of one of the main churches in Watford offered a prayer and benediction for the Peace Garden. Inspired by the project our Watford MP Dean Russel spoke in Parliament about the value of such a place for people's mental health and wellbeing. He then requested for a debate to be held in Parliament about the important role of interfaith in our
