

God's Hope for Denver - God's Hope for America Bus Tour

When the God's Hope for America pilgrimage rolled into Denver on July 29th, the rain had been falling already for over an hour. The much-needed moisture had soaked the field in Denver City Park, where the original Holy Ground was established over 49 years ago. Unificationists and their guests had set up about six canopies to protect the participants from the summer shower.

However, in the words of Shirley Chimes, “Nothing could dampen our enthusiasm as the bus came around the circular drive into City Park. It was such a thrill to see the red carpet put down and to greet the pilgrims on the bus.”

The pilgrims huddled with the local members for a heartfelt and inspired praise and prayer session. Ambassador for Peace, Sam Zakhem, recently returned from a trip to the Middle East, shared some words of inspiration, as did Sum Nguyen, a local Vietnamese leader.

After the prayer service the rain had abated and we all enjoyed a barbeque picnic together near the Holy Ground. We were entertained by rousing performances by the local French/African and Japanese choirs.

Denver Unificationists had invited their guests. After the event, one new Unificationist, Chuck, said that he had such a deep prayer, as never before, and that the words flowed so naturally. He said that the day had been the best day of his life and that his life has been transformed since he met True Parents. Chuck was so grateful to have been a part of this revival event.
