

10th World CARP Japan Project and Service Project in Kumamoto, Japan

Michael Balcomb
May 7, 2019

This year, we will be learning something different: the new self-development programme (called Waku-Waku in Japanese) in Tokyo. It is based on Father's teaching and helps us to draw on the power of our own conscience.

Members in Korea, Taiwan and LA CARP have started to teach the Waku-Waku content, and the Japanese Church now uses it as part of its youth education.

Once again, there has been a request from Kumamoto for the Peace Road Project and the Service Project.

Details:

Applications are open to students aged 16+ who have studied or are studying Divine Principle and True Father's autobiography.

From Mieko:

We would like to ask for big and small donations for the JP Experience Project.

I have been appealing for 10 years that we should make a strong CARP foundation as young people are our future leaders. We have sent young people to Japan, Los Angeles USA, Africa and Alaska.

I really feel that young people should see and learn from different cultures and experience God's providence in the world. We should invest in our youth more than we do at present.

This JP project started in 2010, and since then many European Unificationist young people have visited Japan. They are warmly welcomed and looked after with a lot of love by CARP members and Japanese "Uncles and Aunties".

Donations can be sent to: M Tochigi Davies

What our participants have to say

"It was such a joy to be able to serve and offer my time and heart to the people. Feeling so much of the Japanese peoples' serving heart and trust in me made me want to push beyond my limits.

For the future I want to make a greater effort to incorporate this serving heart into my future supporting other young people."

Being part of the bigger world-wide CARP community during this trip has really opened my eyes to see the impact we can make.

I really think I need to adopt their determination and passion in the UK to create the environment where a culture of heart can really thrive.
