Russian Sunday School Teachers' Workshop

Seventeen Sunday school teachers from across Russia gathered at the Moscow Peace Embassy for a one-day workshop. These teachers included several Second-Generation students and one young First Generation. We emphasized that Sunday school teachers should be spiritually alive, find ways to be interesting to the children, and grow internally and professionally. In the afternoon, some teachers created the theoretical part of several lessons in a new, interesting, creative way, while others worked on the activity part of the lessons.

We also met by age group to discuss our current situations and ways to improve.

I wanted to express my gratitude to all the teachers and inspire them with special awards and small gifts.

Romanian Activities

Thirty-one high school and university students attended the most recent Hoon Dok Hae event in the Bucharest Peace Embassy. The theme of the event was “Living for the Sake of Others!” It was a fiery event full of spirit. True Father’s words inspired the young people to reflect about what can bring true joy to our lives. Another topic of discussion was balance—in particular, balance between loving oneself and loving others.
