

Energize Married Couples Retreat

Crescentia DeGoede

March 14, 2014

Everyone needs a chance to recharge. Take a break from the everyday routine and let your couple refresh by signing up for the Energize Married Couples Retreat.

You'll be able to reconnect as a couple at the beautiful Interlaken Inn, complete with gourmet cuisine, and luxurious amenities. The revitalizing program—full of practical techniques, experienced presenters and fun, interactive sessions—is sure to inspire and ignite some romance during the built-in free time.

Your registration includes a weekend of accommodations at the resort, gourmet cuisine, seminar activities, and surprise goodies for you and your true love.

Cost: $850 per couple.

Couples who register by April 1st pay just $249 per couple (all inclusive).

Register today. For more information send an email to EnergizeRetreat2014@gmail.com.

This retreat is the first in a series organized by the Blessed Marriage Project, an independently funded initiative by Blessed couples for Blessed couples, whose mission is to enhance relationship satisfaction, resiliency, and vitality in couples and individuals in any stage of marriage. It is committed to providing professional, quality programming for married couples. You can check it out on Facebook as well.

The Blessed Marriage Project team members include: John R. Williams, Josie Hauer, Kenny Wolfenberger, Crescentia and Leighton DeGoede, Richard and Mari Curry, and Christoph and Lena Yasutake. They are working in partnership with the National FFWPU USA Blessing and Family Ministry.
