Stand for Religious Freedom

Washington, DC - March 19

Dear brothers and sisters,

On Thursday, March 19, members and supporters from across the country will gather at the Japanese Embassy in Washington, DC to stand for religious freedom and support our brothers and sisters in Japan.

The national goal is 500 participants, and the Northeast region is mobilizing at least 200 people to make the strongest impact possible. If you haven't already done so, register to join the protest.

Registering as a Group

If you are attending with family or friends, one person can register for the entire group and simply indicate how many people are coming.

This helps us estimate bus capacity quickly.

We understand that it's not easy to commit to attending on such short notice. Still, this is an important moment for our community.

If we reach the goal of at least 200 people, our region alone could represent nearly half of the entire gathering and make a powerful statement. We encourage everyone to invite friends, family members, and supporters of religious freedom to join us in this protest.

When our community stands together, we send a powerful message of solidarity and hope.

Additional bus departure details will be shared soon.

Thank you for your support.

The Story

Japan just set a dangerous precedent by dissolving a religious organization with zero criminal convictions.

I'm there

“The decision by the Tokyo High Court to order the dissolution of the Unification Church should trouble anyone who cares about religious liberty. I pray that political leaders consider the dangerous precedent this sets for this foundational freedom.”

— Mike Pompeo, Former United States Secretary of State

Religious Freedom is Nailed to the Cross in Japan

We cannot wait until they come for us.

Amb. Randy Evans. Opinion published by The Washington Times

FOR SALE: 260 church buildings, pews, altars, pulpits and various religious literature, including Bibles, commentaries and hymnals. Contact the Japanese government's designated liquidator acting under a court order of dissolution and liquidation. All property has been seized and secured and is available for sale as needed.

Although the government targeting of faiths and churches for dissolution and banning itself is abhorrent to the notion of freedom of religion, other countries following Japan's lead take it much further.

Religious organizations are not made of angels; they are made of human beings who need places to gather. Without premises and without funds, what 'religious activities' are believers supposed to conduct?"
