

Do Children Belong to the State?

This is the message we have heard from him and proclaim to you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. If we say we have fellowship with him while we walk in darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth. But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin. If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us. 1 John 1: 5-10

The parent cannot find happiness when their beloved child falls ill. If God does not feel pain in His heart for the condition of human beings who have become the cause of national ruin, and who are falling straight down into hell, but instead, enjoys it saying, "Wow! You got what you deserved and now you are going to perish," then such a God should be struck down down by lightning.

Since He is an ideal God who represents the parental position, He does not just sit still on seeing these circumstances. When we think about the hidden heart of parents who would disregard the laws of their nation in order to save their own children, we know it is the same with God.

Were it not for Satan, God would forgive humankind and save them. Despite His desire, since God cannot avoid Satan's accusations, then with tremendous regret, He is compelled to accept those accusations. Who understands God's difficult and wearisome position? We should liberate Him from this situation. In order to do so, there must be such sons and daughters who can confront Satan and save those in hell. Without doing so it is impossible. SMM, CSG 921

Dear

At the beginning of the Sunday Service, Hyung Jin Nim discussed about how satanic power structures use free sex and blackmail to keep people under control. King Solomon thought that political marriages would strengthen his kingdom, but the foreign wives brought their pagan gods and practices with them. King Ahab had a political marriage with Jezebel leading him to tell Israelites to kiss the statue of Baal, but Baal worship included child sacrifice.

Now in the USA, Gov. Northam of Virginia advocates post-birth abortion, but hides that horrific reality with sweet words about "keeping the baby comfortable" until the mother and physicians decide whether to keep it alive or not.

Sanctuary Church Sunday Service 9/6/20

As described in 1 Kings 20, King Benhadad brings 32 Kings with their armies to attack Samaria and

Israel, and sends a messenger to King Ahab with the message that, "Your gold and silver, and goodliest wives and children are mine!"

That is what the Left says, that your children are not yours regarding important decisions such as their education, whether they should have abortions or transgender surgery. Child Protective Services takes away children for their "safety" and then loses track of tens of thousands of them. This is nothing new. Plato advocated that the State raise the children more than 2400 years ago.

Why does the State control who can get married, who can worship or open their business? Now all must wear a mask. In the book of James, it says to resist the devil and he will flee.

Dr. Richard Lee who wrote Patriot Bible and recently appeared on The King's Report has been praying with Pres. Trump. God stirs things up for our long-term benefit.

The JOY of Rod of Iron Riders on the Road

True Father spoke about the Hobby Industry. Hobbies can provide good training for mind-body unity and experiencing the joy of camaraderie, such as the Rod of Iron motorcycle riders keeping in close formations or the Trump 2020 boat flotillas.

Leftists want to divide us by race. If they succeed, America will be like a prison where there are white gangs, black gangs, and Asian gangs. If we lose the beliefs and values that bind us together, then will we will be divided and defeated. Christ transcends all the divisions.

Atheism ultimately leads to the Occult and Satanism. That is why the Bible forbids dealing with the Occult.

2nd Queen's Victorious Ride!

God pulls us out of pure individualism or just focusing on our families into caring about the community and nation. There will be no centralized police or military in the Kingdom of Heaven. Each must learn to practice loving and protecting your neighbor as yourself.

Each should look at his wife/Queen as a Peace Militia woman. The husband is a Peace Militia man who does not live for himself.

In this 2020 presidential election leftist mobs are running parts of several cities, Seattle, Portland, etc. David fulfilled his responsibility by chopping off the head of Goliath. Traitors must be put on trial and, if found guilty, given the severe punishment they deserve.

May God Bless America

Leftists Blame America.

Decent People Blame Themselves.

by Dennis Prager, 9/8/20

As long ago as the 1970s, I came to a major realization. While watching fellow students at Columbia University demonstrate not just against the war in Vietnam but against America - "Amerika," as many spelled it, the "imperialist," "colonialist," "mass-murdering" country - I kept wondering what made these people so hostile to the freest country in human history.

Then, one day, as a result of my having attended a yeshiva (an Orthodox Jewish day school) through high school, the reason became clear. Half of each school day was devoted to religious studies in Hebrew, and the other half was devoted to secular studies in English. This meant that I had been immersed in a religious worldview until college.

Though it was Jewish, this worldview could also be called "Judeo-Christian." Students at traditionally Christian schools were immersed in essentially the same worldview. We were all taught that the most important battle we need to wage in life was with our own nature. Jews and Christians learned from the same Scripture that "the will of man's heart is evil from his youth" (Genesis 8:21).

Therefore, being a good person involved a constant battle with our flawed human nature: our urges, appetites and innate weaknesses. This battle was also the only real route to a better world. Every individual had to work on him or herself to be decent, strong, courageous and self-controlled, and every parent had to work, first and foremost, on raising such people.

One day, I came to realize that this was not how the vast majority of my fellow students were raised. They were raised to believe that the great battle in life was not with one's nature but with outside forces - with parents, in many cases, but most of all with society, i.e., America.

May God bless you and your families!

Sincerely,

Richard

As long ago as the 1970s, I came to a major realization. While watching fellow students at Columbia University demonstrate not just against the war in Vietnam but against America — “Amerika,” as many spelled it, the “imperialist,” “colonialist,” “mass-murdering” country — I kept wondering what made these people so hostile to the freest country in human history.

Then, one day, as a result of my having attended a yeshiva (an Orthodox Jewish day school) through high school, the reason became clear. Half of each school day was devoted to religious studies in Hebrew, and the other half was devoted to secular studies in English. This meant that I had been immersed in a religious worldview until college.

Though it was Jewish, this worldview could also be called “Judeo-Christian.” Students at traditionally Christian schools were immersed in essentially the same worldview.

We were all taught that the most important battle we need to wage in life was with our own nature. Jews and Christians learned from the same Scripture that “the will of man’s heart is evil from his youth” (Genesis 8:21).

Therefore, being a good person involved a constant battle with our flawed human nature: our urges, appetites and innate weaknesses. This battle was also the only real route to a better world. Every individual had to work on him or herself to be decent, strong, courageous and self-controlled, and every parent had to work, first and foremost, on raising such people.

One day, I came to realize that this was not how the vast majority of my fellow students were raised. They were raised to believe that the great battle in life was not with one’s nature but with outside forces — with parents, in many cases, but most of all with society, i.e., America.

All of us, whatever our political outlook, have to confront personal failure, loss, disappointment and unhappiness. When confronted with these challenges, religious Jews and Christians are taught to look inward for both the primary source of their problems and the primary solutions to those problems: What have I done wrong? What can I change in my life to solve my problems?

Of course, some nonreligious liberals and conservatives also have this attitude. But most of them likely inherited it from religious parents or, at the very least, from parents who were raised in a religious home or a home that retained the remnants of such an upbringing, which was common in pre-1960s America. (It is therefore questionable how many secular parents will succeed in passing this attitude on to their children.)

The left, which proudly rejects Judeo-Christian values, has adopted the opposite of the Judeo-Christian view regarding pain in life. Leftists (as opposed to liberals) hold outside forces responsible for their pain. That is the reason for the litany of left-wing enemies: capitalism, patriarchy, misogyny, systemic racism, homophobia, transphobia, Islamophobia, sexism, xenophobia.

So, then, if you are an unhappy American woman, you can work on yourself and your nature, or you can blame sexism and patriarchy, i.e., men, for your pained state.

If you are an unhappy gay American, you can work on yourself, or you can blame society’s homophobia for your unhappiness.

And, most significantly, if you are an unhappy black American, you can work on yourself and your life, or you can blame systemic racism and whites for your anger and unfulfilled life.

All this explains why the left encourages every group except for white, Christian, heterosexual males to regard themselves as oppressed. The more oppressed women, gays, blacks, etc., see themselves, the more they are alienated from America and its values, and the more they gravitate left. In light of this, I came up with a riddle:

Q: What do you call a happy black person?

A: A Republican.

Without an exception I can recall, over the course of decades, I have guessed the political affiliation of every black caller to my radio show within a minute of talking to them. If they sounded happy, I knew they were a Republican; if they were angry, I knew they were a Democrat. This has held true for male and female callers.

America has been a great country because it was built on the belief that we must all fight against our natures (and fight for our country). It is difficult to overstate the damage the left is doing to this country by abandoning the fundamental Judeo-Christian teaching that we must fight our natures in order to lead a more decent and happy life and replacing it with the belief that we must battle America instead. This replacement inevitably leads to a population of unhappy, ungrateful and mean-spirited human beings — precisely the type of individuals you see rioting and looting, the type of elected officials who do nothing to stop rioters and looters, the columnists and academics who devote their lives to spewing hate-filled lies about America, and the Twitter mobs who comprise the toxic cancel culture.

It will lead to what the left acknowledges it seeks: the end of America as we have known it.
