Introducing Mrs. Judi Moreo, our third speaker for the upcoming Global Women's Peace Network series on *Women's Leadership in Reconciliation and Peacemaking!

During next week's forum on Catalysts for Positive Change - Arts and Culture, she will be sharing insights on "How Art Can Help Us Overcome Toxic Cultures and Environments." She will dive into the importance of expressing creativity as a process to provide solutions to the complex challenges we face today, and the powerful way art motivates and enhances our wellbeing. She will also address the skills acquired in the arts that offer a deeper understanding and useful tool to build a more just and sustainable culture.

Judi Moreo has informed, inspired, challenged, motivated and entertained audiences in twenty-nine countries around the globe with her unique speaking style and is one of less than 10% of the speakers in the world who has earned the prestigious Certified Speaking Professional designation from the National Speakers Association.

She is the author of 24 books including two international bestsellers, "You Are More Than Enough" and "Ignite the Spark." In addition, Judi is a fine artist with her paintings appearing in galleries and private collections throughout North America, Europe, and Africa. She teaches abstract, still life, and wildlife painting at UNLV and is the host of the popular "What's Your Story?" television talk show on Golden Network TV on Roku.

Today, Judi is recognized as one of Las Vegas' most respected businesswomen. She has been the recipient of many awards including the Nevada Business Person of the Year from the US Business Advisory Council; Woman of Achievement – Entrepreneur from the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce; the Outstanding Achievement and Public Service Award from the American Women in Radio and Television; a HerStory Award from the Women's Federation for World Peace and this year was named to the Business Hall of Fame.

Register today and join us for the session on Wednesday, October 20 at 8 PM EDT.
