Sept 23 - Native American Drumming for Fall equinox

Sept. 24 - Stephen Nakana, PhD

“Through the eyes of a Peace Fellow: Rotary’s Peace Building Journey, from 1917 onwards”

In my presentation, I will trace the roots of Rotary’s peace building journey. I will link this peacebuilding journey struggles for peace and how my native country, South Africa benefited from such initiatives, as well as how Rotary, through its peace building fellowship helped me to pursue a degree in the Peace building field, and how Rotarians and peace fellows are working collaboratively to advance peace in the world.

Steven, is the Port of Portland’s new Social Equity Program Manager, a position has occupied for about 11 months. Prior to joining the Port, he worked for Mercy Corps, an international Humanitarian Organization as Peacebuilding advisor, as well as a curriculum advisor. He is a 2005 to 2007 Rotary Foundation World Peace Fellow. His Rotary fellowship was made possible through the generosity of the late PDG Paul Elder and his wife Jean of Somerset, PA. He holds a PhD Degree in International Studies from the Graduate Institute for International and Development Studies in Geneva, Switzerland, which obtained Summa Cum Laude recognition. He also holds two masters degrees in Sociology and a two-year professional certificate in Conflict Resolution and Peacebuilding from the University of California, Berkeley. He also obtained another masters’ degree in international studies from the University of Cape Town in South Africa, as well as numerous traineeships in conflict management and negotiation from numerous universities and organizations including the Harvard University-based Program on Negotiation. Steven has spoken to over 100 Rotary clubs in South Africa and the US, and several district conferences and symposia in the US, Canada, and Thailand. He is also serving his third and final an advisor to the Rotary Foundation’s Peace Centers Committee. Steven and his spouse, Rosalee Francis, an environmental law attorney at Bonneville Power Authority, who also was a 2008 Rotary ambassadorial scholar to South Africa, have a 3-year old daughter, called Thandiwe Irene Nakana, whose name means the beloved “goddess of peace”.
