

Blogging about 101 Proofs for God

Jim Stephens

October 13, 2014

www.101proofsforgod.com/

Three years ago I was sitting in bed praying. I had been thinking a lot about what I was going to do with the rest of my life. I was 62 and thinking 30 more years was about all there was left at the most.

The thought occurred to me to pray something like this: “Heavenly Father, I know your situation is pretty tough up there because things are so messed up down here. I’ve only got about 20 good years left that I might be able to help You. What can I personally do for you with the time I’ve got left?”

The answer came in a pretty clear understanding: “My children don’t know me. Even the ones who believe in me don’t really know Me. They have no defense against the attacks of the atheists, scientists, and evolutionists who claim science and truth are on their side. It is an all-out war for the minds and hearts of my children.”

I could feel there was vast loneliness, sadness and frustration in God’s heart with this situation.

“Proofs for God” were needed. Most believers, when confronted by atheists, had very shallow proofs for God and typically could only think of a few.

Jim Stephens

I felt like God wanted me to help with this situation. So I decided to write “101 Proofs For God for the Common Man.”

Each proof would be short so anyone could read it in two or three minutes. I would cover all kinds of topics from logical proofs to serious scientific explanations and the latest research. I would avoid heavy theological and philosophical proofs. I’d write proofs that even middle-schoolers could understand. I would do the research on the latest discoveries and summarize it for their easy understanding.

I chose to post each proof as I wrote it on Blogspot. Later, I created a website that contains the full list of them. My goal is to finish #75 by the end of the year and get to #101 by the end of 2015. Then I want to turn it into a book.

It has been a tremendous journey of discovery over these last three years. I have come to believe that if you are looking for God, it doesn’t matter where you look, you will find Him absolutely everywhere. Clearly, there are some people who want to deny God exists and they do amazing mental gymnastics to prove they are right, but they are not my audience.

The atheist Richard Dawkins spent a whole chapter in his book, The Blind Watchmaker, describing the amazing abilities of bats to “echolocate” in the dark. I found Dawkins’ logic concerning evolution to be simplistic and flawed, but was very inspired by his information on bats and turned it around into a proof for God (Proof #42).

God has guided me so many times with new ideas and inspirations that cross my path. Proofs have come unexpectedly. One morning I was standing in the bathroom and I looked out the window at all the trees. I felt so much love and appreciation for the trees. They give us so much. I did a little research on trees and the proof just came flowing out like it was already written (Proof #39).

Actually it’s possible to find many top scientists starting to recognize that the idea of an Intelligent Designer is probably correct. Of course, most of them also have to be careful of having their careers ruined. But definitely the scientific evidence is swinging away from the Theory of Evolution. Almost no scientist believes in the original Darwinism any more. It has had to be modified many times because no research supports it. There is no slow gradual development. Mutation and natural selection are not workable engines for the origin of new species.

99.9% of our fossil record has been discovered since the time of Darwin, but that record contains almost nothing that could be considered transitional species, so there are millions of Missing Links (Proof #64). The fossil record in fact shows that almost all of the phyla of various species appeared in a very narrow band of time which is only about 1% of the time since the Big Bang. This disproves Darwin's idea of slow and gradual differentiation. That band of time is being called the Cambrian Explosion (Proof #58).

I analyze the two main driving forces for Darwin: mutation and natural selection (Proof #27 and Proof #35). Neither one goes in the upward direction. Theodosius Dobzhansky, a prominent evolutionary biologist, spent years irradiating fruit flies for thousands of generations to artificially induce mutations and never produced any viable new fruit fly, let alone a new species. Even the smartest scientists trying hard can't make mutation work! So it could never work by accident. Natural selection is a process that requires reproduction, so it couldn't even start until advanced species already existed. Besides, it can never produce a new species, only select from among favorable traits already within the DNA. It cannot produce new information. In fact, there is a loss of genetic information.

I write about parts of the human body like the eye (Proof #45), a truly unbelievable creation. There is so much technical data on the eye that writing that proof was really hard. I also wrote about muscles (Proof #61). Nobody has any idea where muscles came from. And how could random mutation accidentally produce muscles that always occur in pairs. In humans there are exactly 320 pairs of muscles? Animals, fish, and insects of course also have muscles in pairs.

I discuss your amazing skin (Proof #63), all its sweat glands and pressure sensitivity, and the various types of hair. Just the human body alone could be used for all 101 proofs if I wanted to. Each one of us is a walking, talking miracle. Many inspirations for proofs have come to me concerning the human body. Starting with our reproductive systems and the sperm and egg, the fetus, the bodily systems, the five senses — all are truly beyond the ability of scientists to understand or duplicate. Each one is a miracle.

I write about empty space (Proof #14), the amazing properties of the Moon (Proof #49), invisibility (Proof #59), snowflakes (Proof #56), and the rapidly growing field of Life After Death and Near Death Experiences (Proof #10).

Animals are phenomenal. Fish, insects, and plants are awesome. They are all interconnected in an amazing ecosystem (Proof #54). Pacific Golden Plovers (Proof #24) fly from Alaska straight to Hawaii over the ocean, taking 70 hours without stopping, and never miss. After they leave Alaska, their eggs hatch and the babies eventually follow without any assistance. Monarch butterflies (Proof #20) travel north every year from Central America, but three generations live and die on the way until the "Methuselah generation" is born and these Monarchs fly all the way back to the same tree their ancestors started on without any GPS to help them.

Ants have elaborate systems to air condition their nests and calculate exactly how much food the nest will need and how much is going in and coming out of their storage areas. (Proof #46)

Caterpillars go into a cocoon and turn into mush, which somehow forms into a butterfly (Proof #19). Cicadas go underground for 17 years before emerging again at exactly 64°F (Proof #57).

Plants have incredible and exotic ways to pollinate (Proof #51). I also do a proof called Ugly Flowers (Proof #2). Think about the fact that there are 270,000 different types of flowers and none of them is ugly. If mutation were true, the odds are at least 50-50 that half the flowers would be ugly.

On and on it goes. The world around us is totally awesome when you start to explore it deeply. "Awesome" only comes from intelligent sources, but most especially only from beings with a loving heart.

The DNA in your body alone when stretched end to end would reach to the Sun and back 600 times. You would have to type eight hours a day for 50 years to just type out the DNA information in one cell (Proofs #21 and #30).

After 50 years as the world's most famous atheist, Dr. Antony Flew was defeated by the discoveries about DNA and concluded in 2004 that there must be an intelligent creator (Proof #17).

A conference of esteemed mathematicians back in 1966 calculated that evolution is impossible (Proof #29).

In summary, the evidence of God is absolutely everywhere and overwhelming. This article only touches on a proofs I have compiled so far. More are coming. I am more profoundly convinced than ever of God's existence and God's heart that is invested in everything that was created. Each article is proof in itself, but one by one, added together they make up an almost undeniable case for anyone openly searching for the truth.

My deepest heart is that everyone can know God as their loving parent and be able to share it.

---

Jim Stephens and his wife, Hiromi, were blessed among the 2,075 Couples in 1982, and have five children. He has written and spoken extensively in the American Movement about men and women, families, matching, marriage, and the Blessing, having served with Hiromi for five years as Co-Director of the Blessed Family Department.

Photo at top: The Helix Nebula, also known as The Helix, NGC 7293, a large planetary nebula located in the constellation Aquarius.