

Conference for the International Association for Peace and Economic Development

The International Association for Peace and Economic Development (IAED) will be held with 500 businessmen from around the world to honor the centenary of Rev. Sun Myung Moon. The conference will highlight the ideals and mission of the founders, who have expanded the movement to form standardization of economies and systems throughout their lives to building a world of freedom, peace, unity and happiness. The conference will be convened under the theme of The Responsibilities of Businessmen in Achieving World Peace and for the Prosperity of the New Korean Peninsula.

The conference will take place as a celebratory event to academically highlight the noble lives and legacies of the founders, Rev. Moon and Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, who have sacrificed their lives in building a world of happiness and peace for the humankind, and to bequeath their ideals of peace for the future generation.

The objective of the conference is to congregate businessmen from around the world and form a global network of cooperation to realize standardization of economy. In addition, the participants will resolve to realize peace for humanity and contribute for the prosperity of the Korean Peninsula.
