The second Cranes Club Education Conference will take place between 19-21 April at Livingstone House in Chislehurst, Kent, England. The first education conference was held in Austria in autumn 2017. This one and hopefully future ones will be during Easter when teachers are on holiday. The purpose is to create an opportunity for teachers from around Europe to meet, make friends and spend time together discussing topics that are of interest and concern to them. To reflect on and explore ways to live a spiritual life and apply the Principle within the field of education. It will also be possible to arrange outings to London for people who wish to stay longer.

You are invited to suggest topics and also to contribute to the event either through giving a talk, leading a discussion, a coaching session or with the organisation of the conference itself.

Suggested areas could include:

Philosophy of education

Pedagogy

Being a teacher

Coaching teachers
Classroom management
Teacher – pupil relationships
Spiritual and moral education
Teaching particular subjects
School and educational reform
Curriculum development
School leadership and management
Primary, secondary and tertiary education

Challenges of political correctness The conference could include sections for teachers based on age: pre-school, elementary, high school, college and university etc. It could also include sections for teachers based on subject specialism: science, humanities, character education etc.
