ISSUE 15.05.26

This week's newsletter highlights inspiring moments of peacebuilding, education, and community connection. Read reflections from the Christian Education Conference, discover how families came together at the Birmingham Peace Festival, and catch up on the latest updates from across our Heavenly Parent's Holy Community.

Message of the Week

Dear sisters and brothers,

Today was the 40th day of this 3rd cycle of our "Take 5" devotion. Over 70 sisters in our community took part and prayed for 5 minutes to connect with True Mother. Thank you so much for your support throughout this period!

My intention with this "Take 5" devotion is that we can support True Mother in a positive way. Rather than feeling hopeless or frustrated by the situation, I believe True Mother wants us to go deeper, and live with more purpose in the way True Parents have taught us. My intention in focusing on empowering the sisters is so that we can bring the spiritual change that is so needed in our surroundings. True Mother herself has had to pioneer that way and by connecting more deeply with her, I hope we can be strengthened in the role we all have as sisters, mothers and daughters.

Thank you also for the many works of kindness, service, truth, boldness and love you did throughout this week! Heavenly Parent is present through you!

Yoshiko & Bogdan

Reflections From The Christian Education Conference

On 25th April, Yoshiko Pammer, Betty Rodrigues, and Ala Zubovskis attended the Education Revolution Conference organised by Christian Concern at Westminster Chapel. Representing the FFWPU Children's Ministry and blessed families, the conference offered a meaningful opportunity to connect with Christians and educators passionate about creating a more God-centred educational environment for the next generation.

Throughout the day, worship, keynote talks, and discussion sessions explored the growing challenges facing children, parents, and teachers in today's increasingly secular society. The atmosphere was uplifting and hopeful, bringing together individuals and organisations committed to protecting family values and supporting faith-based education initiatives.

One major reflection shared by Yoshiko Pammer was the encouragement she felt seeing so many Christians courageously standing for God and for the well-being of children. She was especially moved by the unity created through worship and by the strong sense that families and communities are not alone in their efforts to raise children according to God's ideals. The conference strengthened her hope that greater cooperation between people of faith can help shape Britain into a more family-centred nation.

For Ala Zubovskis, the conference felt like an answer to prayer. She reflected on the importance of finding pathways and partnerships with others who are actively working to restore heavenly values within education. Hearing passionate speakers share their struggles and victories deeply inspired her, particularly those who promote God's design for marriage, family, and relationships. She also appreciated the opportunity to represent FFWPU by participating in an interview with the organisers, sharing positive reflections from the perspective of the Children's Ministry.

Betty Rodrigues highlighted the practical role that parents and teachers can play in shaping the future of education. One key takeaway was the importance of parents becoming more involved within schools through PTAs and school governor roles, helping to influence school culture and support children's wellbeing. She also reflected on the need to encourage teachers who may feel isolated in today's environment and the value of building partnerships with organisations that uphold strong moral and family values.

Overall, the conference reminded participants that raising the next generation is not only a personal responsibility, but a shared mission. Through faith, cooperation, and active involvement, families and communities can contribute to creating an educational environment rooted in truth, love, and hope for the future.

Birmingham Peace Festival Brings Families Together

On Saturday, 2nd May, families from the Ismaili and FFWPU communities gathered in Birmingham for a joyful peace festival organised through a collaborative effort between the Universal Peace Federation (UPF) and the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification UK (FFWPU-UK).

The event welcomed around 30 families to the Ismaili Mosque for an afternoon focused on peacebuilding, family values, and interfaith friendship. The festival grew out of relationships formed through Women of Hope activities and ongoing peace initiatives led by David and Patricia Earle, together with the FFWPU children's ministry.

While adults gathered in the prayer hall for a presentation by David Earle on the importance of marriage and family, children took part in a lively programme of games, origami, arts and crafts, bracelet-making and music led by Ala Zubovskis, Viola, and Rodrigo. Through the activities, children from different backgrounds naturally built friendships and experienced values such as kindness, cooperation, and respect.

A special highlight for many children was receiving Ala Zubovskis' book Nature is My Friend: A Gift from Heavenly Parent, with several excitedly asking for signed copies.

The programme concluded with everyone gathering in the Main Hall, where the children performed a song they had prepared for their parents, before families shared pizza and refreshments.

A touching closing prayer was offered by Amin Mitha from the Ismaili community, expressing gratitude to Patricia Earle and Ala Zubovskis, on behalf of the community. The atmosphere throughout the afternoon reflected a genuine spirit of unity, warmth, and mutual respect.

The Peace Festival demonstrated how interfaith cooperation centred on children and families can create meaningful connections and lay foundations for lasting peace and friendship between communities.
