An estimated 100 million people tuned in to the Rally of Hope for the Realization of a Heavenly Unified World on August 8, a special program hosted by the Universal Peace Federation (UPF) that streamed live on more than 70 broadcasting stations around the world as well as online. Global leaders, presidents, prime ministers, and foreign dignitaries took the stage, virtually joining the Mother of Peace Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, co-founder of UPF, in delivering messages of hope and peace during the COVID-19 era.

“Human history has been a sad history of continuous conflicts, and even now, around the world conflicts are happening everywhere,” said Dr. Moon. “But God, our Heavenly Parent, is working to see the realization of His providence. It is our responsibility to attend God and unite centering on God as our Heavenly Parent. As long as Heavenly Parent remains the center of a family, community, or society, all problems can be solved.”

The full recording will be made available once iPeace TV releases it.

Universal Peace Federation hosts worldwide virtual 'Rally of Hope'

The Washington Times article published on August 8, 2020

By Ben Wolfgang

Global health crises, economic turmoil and racial divisions threaten to bring out the very worst in humanity, but those challenges must be met by love and respect for the unifying principles that bind all nations together, faith leaders and top political figures said Saturday evening at a major international rally.

The “Rally of Hope,” organized by the Universal Peace Federation (UPF) and partner groups, drew about 1.5 million participants from around the globe for a virtual gathering and provided a powerful platform in the fight against poverty, racial and ethnic divisions, environmental degradation and other issues that fuel conflict and discord.

Its speakers included current and former heads of state, along with powerful U.S. politicians and prominent voices from across the religious spectrum, all joining together in a call for peace and togetherness at a crucial moment for the planet...

In her remarks Saturday night, Mrs. Moon said the reunification of Korea would be a long-awaited step forward for the world.

“It is only when we attend heavenly parent that the issue of North–South reunification, that a true unified Korea, can be realized,” she said. “May Korea become a nation of virtue that can stand as a beacon...before the world.”
