Hello family. True Mother a unifying voice of hope. Washington Times says Rally of Hope a call for 'togetherness' during Covid-19. Panel discuss significance of Saturday's rally. And the latest from Korea.

Mother of Peace Urges 'Align With Our Creator'

Millions tuned in online last Saturday to hear from the Mother of Peace FFWPU

The second Rally of Hope, hosted by the Universal Peace Federation (UPF) and held virtually from South Korea on September 27, brought together political and faith leaders from around the world who joined an estimated one million people tuning in to the live program on multiple social platforms.

Mother of Peace Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, co-founder of UPF with her late husband Rev. Sun Myung Moon, spoke among several current and former heads of state who addressed humanity's current crises and the essential need for peace.

“A propitious time is now upon us,” said Dr. Moon as she shared about the upcoming Korean Thanksgiving Day, Chuseok. It is one of the nation’s biggest and most important holidays of gratitude that honors ancestors. “The Korean people, an agrarian society, are known for revering and attending Heaven,” she said. “They offer thanks and gratitude for a bountiful harvest.”

Likewise, Dr. Moon said humanity must return to God and gratefully attend Him. She said the coronavirus pandemic is a call for us to pay attention.

“Humanity is currently in a position that is not completely aligned with our Creator,” said Dr. Moon. But she explained that America must take initiative and humanity must work together. She emphasized respect for the earth and taking solution-oriented steps to address the pandemic and climate change, including the idea of transforming the vast Gobi Desert in southern Mongolia into a lush forest that can help heal the planet.

Faith, political leaders meet virtually for second 'Global Rally of Hope'

By Guy Taylor – The Washington Times – Sunday, September 27, 2020

A diverse mix of faith leaders and political figures gathered for the second time in as many months this weekend for a major international rally calling for a more unified world to be achieved through collective embraces of freedom, peace, interdependence and the pursuit of mutual prosperity.

The second “Global Rally of Hope” — held online and drawing what organizers said was an audience of well over 1 million viewers and participants — provided a unique platform for faith-driven global messaging aimed at addressing racial and ethnic division, poverty, environmental degradation and other issues fueling conflict in the world.
