

WFWP UK's Annual National Young Women's Speech Contest

Mitty Tohma and Christa Rennie
August 22, 2019

Annual National Young Women's Speech Contest Saturday 5th October from 1:30pm – 5pm

Dear WFWP Members and Friends,

The Women's Federation for World Peace, UK (WFWP) is an NGO working in over 120 nations to empower women and girls through leadership training, education, confidence and capacity building programmes – with an advocacy presence at major UN Offices. In addition, WFWP maintains service projects in over fifty nations in the areas of peace, development, education, vocational training, micro-credit, AIDS prevention, also offering humanitarian aid and medical assistance.

As one of the economical social and political developments, the WFWP launched an educational public speaking programme – solely sponsored by the UK chapter of the Women's Federation for World Peace. Since 2015 this programme has provided a remarkable platform for the young women of today to speak their minds, to deepen their thoughts, to speak a truth, to give us an insight into their beliefs and values they continue to fight for every day.

The gift of public speaking is not one to be undermined for it is powerful. For that is when people come together; when individuals express a truth, their truths. The theme is "Career, Marriage, Motherhood and I".

We warmly invite you to join us at this year's Young Women's Speech Contest. The event is to be held at 43 Lancaster Gate, London W2 3NA, 1.30 – 5pm.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Mitty Tohma – President
Christa Rennie – Secretary General
