

Reality of Restoration

Restoration in this physical realm of time and space will take generations. God is beyond time and space so in theory it is humanity that will suffer this lengthy process; but wait a minute, even though God is beyond the physical realm of time and space, still He is within each of us and also within His Heart there is a spiritual time and there is a spiritual space. It's called the infinite world of spirit. God's love, God's pain, and God's loneliness can be felt by us and our love, our pain, and our loneliness can be felt by God. As we become more closer to God, we become closer in connection to each other. God and I!

So why am I talking about this?

Reason is, in our lives we have experienced a cosmic explosion. A drastic spiritual change that has created the beginning of the end to the world as we know it. Myriad's of demonic spirits have descended into our physical realm possessing the bodies of men, women, and children to commit horrific crimes and some even beyond one's imagination. Father forewarned us at various times in the 70's this activity would happen if America did not return to God.

Upon Father's ascension another drastic explosion happened. Consistency become inconsistency. The protocolic fruit has become deluded at the center of its core. Diversity of opinions and directions has created a catastrophic division. Now, instead of being the Unificationists movement we now can call ourselves the Divisionists movement.

What the heck are you talking about right?

During Father's life on earth, Father was constantly setting this condition to restore that, and that condition to restore this. Constantly setting conditions to make way for the beginning of the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth centered upon the Core - The True Family.

There are 7.5 billion people on the planet and growing. Restoration will take a long time because for a multitude of reasons, but basically because of traditions, hate, and misunderstandings that creates a hindrance to change. Since stress, lack of respect, and envy dominates the worlds psychic, I think one would be fooling themselves in thinking that at a certain point in time some sort of mystical banner is going to soar through the sky with Christ and His Myriad's of Angels following to save the world is a bit too unrealistic.

We should probably leave the mysticism's to Star wars and focus a bit more on reality. Realistically restoration has to start and continue moving forward from a certain point in our realm. Restoration of human kind started at the Completed Testament Age with True Parents. From True Parents came the True Family and then Blessed Families. Billions of people in the human race will die in the wilderness because of the 3 basic reasons why they can't change. Between the beginning of a life and the death of that life many additional lives are created. So for every life that eventually dies multitudes are created. Human population continues and Satan's family continues to grow.

Meanwhile, within the supposed core of God's initial foundation for His Family to become the center of Life, dissension occurred. As a result of this dissension, 2 traditions have hatched. As the result of this, a spiritual cancer has been created. Conflicting concepts, interpretations, position of power has broken the backbone of the body. The beginning of the 1st to the 2nd and on into the 3rd generations since our True Father walk, are now infested with this cancer. It's called doubt!

Who's right?

Whoever is right, it will take at least 3+ generations to pass before a new vertical core can be established. Again, by this time there could be close to, if not more than, 10 billion people on this planet. Christianity could be completely secular, Islam could be the majority, and the racial divisions could be at an epidemic level. The United States, God's chosen, could be going toward a 3rd world status. A new concept would possibility have to be invented and created before a foundation can be presented for a new "King" to rise.

Back to the top!

Restoration in the physical time and space realm could take a very long time and humanity will suffer because of the Core Division; but also, God will continue to suffer. Yes, God will continue to suffer. Because of the Principle of Creation God cannot just whip out a wand and wave it 3 times and poof - the Kingdom is here!!!! No, no way - man/woman humankind is the only vehicle God can work through to fulfill the Purpose of Creation.

So - what's the solution?

A meeting between Mother and all Children, A unity of and by our True Family. One Head will automatically heal and unite the body in a split second. Once the mind and body have become One, then God has a force to work thru. Since God is stronger than Satan (how can I say this? Do something good and see how comfortable and angelic you feel, Then do something wrong and feel the pain - your answer) - then mountains will be moved, flowers will grow in arid lands, the children will be free, the hungry will be fed and the sick will heal. Change will occur in rapid motion!

Conclusion

For those of you who have had the patience and courage to read this little article of mind down to this point may be saying to yourself, "my god John, why are you so pessimistic", I could see where you could possibly think that, but I would prefer to say - I am a realists
