

The Second King: Brexit is part of God's Providence in separating good from evil

Dan Day
March 29, 2019

The Second King has mentioned on a number of occasions that Brexit is part of God's Providence in separating good from evil and breaking down the Satanic 'Cultural Marxism' of the monolithic 'One World' organisations such as the U.N and the E.U –

It is for that reasons I have posted these photos taken at the Brexit demonstration I attended on Friday 29th March.

There have been two large demonstrations in Westminster in support of Brexit recently, the first was last year in December and the second was Friday March 29th, 2019 which was the originally planned date that we were supposed to leave the E.U – Which of course has now been postponed until 12th April and possibly later.

The event last year had a spirit of quiet determination, this time there was a sense of frustration and anger that was expressed, however apart from one or two individual acts of misbehaviour reported in the press, the demonstration was good natured and peaceful.

There were many groups and organisations attending including, 'Christians For Brexit'.

Heavenly Father always leads us to people; I was walking along and saw a man wearing a T-Shirt with 'Veterans for Christ' –

I started talking with him, then suddenly a Catholic young lady turned up to join the conversation, then an ex-serviceman who was now a 'Pagan' and a group with a big banner saying that Brexit was prophesied in the Old Testament, who made camp next to us. I left my Christian brother to the Pagan and had an interesting conversation about Gog and Magog with the young man who was holding up their banner. By the time the Pagan and the Catholic young lady had gone off together, I returned to my 'Veterans For Christ' brother and had a long discussion on his views about promoting Second Amendment rights in the U.K.

It wasn't long before night was falling and the crowds had thinned. By 8.00pm it was dark and only the hard-core were left and those who were staying for the fun of it. The alcohol was clearly beginning to flow and standards to fall. I did a last round of the area, talked to a few people and headed off to the station and home.

There is argument as to whether demonstrations are effective or not, but it is very important that people state their position publicly. There is a tug of war going on for the future of this nation amongst both the general population and the political classes. God and Satan are locked in a conflict over the future of humankind which requires people to make the right or wrong conditions.

That story is manifest in the Bible and explained in the Principle of Restoration in the Divine Principle.

If we study both of those books, it is clear that the battle depends on the actions of the Central Figures that God has chosen to represent the symbolic positions of good and evil.

Just a few days before this there had been a large demonstration representing the side who wanted to remain in the E.U, so it was important for the 'Leave' population to make their statement. I am not confident enough to say for sure; but it seems to me in the battle between God and Satan for the future of the nation, if no one on God's side turns up to make a claim for him then it is not a good thing. So luckily there were there, as I have testified, representative of all the levels in Gods' providence. That is the Old, New and Completed Testament.

I think that the King would be encouraging Sanctuary members to be active both spiritually and physically in this particular situation. This fight is not over by any means and for those who are able, I would encourage you to become active in some way or another. If you do not know what to do I might have some suggestions so please contact me at this address: dan-day@mail.com

God bless you and let us bring our nation back to God's sovereignty again.

Dan Day reporting.