Fred Immendorfer was born on November 21, 1955 at the Jamaican Hospital Medical Center in Queens, NY. Little did his parents, Robert and Elise Immendorfer, know this was the same hospital that our 45th President US President was born at 9 years earlier. One of the hearts of the Big Apple, the monumental New Yorker Hotel is one of the most historical buildings of Nikola Tesla's life, the location of his last home and lab, on the 33rd Floor. It is at this very building in the summer of 2008, where Fred was guided by our Heavenly Father to take a trip from his then home in SJ to visit his birth city.

He felt God's presence to stop at the New Yorker Hotel. It seemed unfortunate at first, he lost his wallet, but this returned him again to this building to seek greater insight. Fred has a deeply spiritual heart as well as a mind. Profoundly sharp and just, he fearlessly recognizes the good and bad among all corners of humanity, always sticking up for the marginalized. He knows that God is Omnipotent behind all events and people. That which may appear to be as trivial yet unfortunate as losing a wallet, Fred sees God communicating through all. He took the ill event of losing his wallet as a message to look deep into the history of the New Yorker. And shortly after, he learned about the mysterious Scientist, Nikola Tesla, who spent the last years of his life on the 33rd Floor of the New Yorker.

This same spot Fred met his Spiritual Parents when he was 19. Then attended a 120-day workshop at UTS, led by the lecturer Rev Wayne Miller. After he spent a few months at the UTS, he joined the church Mobile Fundraising Team first started fundraising in the New York area, afterward traveled throughout New England which was not so easy at the time. Fred encouraged everyone to not give up. When Fred was the co-captain, team members used to stay at the White House in Tarrytown, New York. Everyone on his team worked very closely with Mr. Kamiyama. Sometimes his team would go from fundraising to Pledge Service and hear True Father's sermons. One Sunday the True Father asked all of the fundraising team to stand up. He asked all MFT members to be recognized for their hard work. He gave each member $100.00. Fred had a big heart towards everybody. He was united with his captain, Zola at the time. After completing his 10 years of MFT mission, he was hired as the dispatcher at the New York Fish House in

He was Blessed in marriage with Monika Becker-Immendorfer, and with three wonderful children, the twins David, Caroline, and youngest son Jacob. Fred's passion for missionary work led him to the profound blessing of being a Missionary in Africa. Years later, he shared his blessing by continuing this work as the National Messiah in the South Pacific, Vanuatu, bringing his family to one of the closest places to heaven on earth.

After coming back from Vanuatu, he worked as the district manager in the United Vision Sales. After quitting his job at the UV sales, Fred was employed at the newly opened Philadelphia True world food in 2003. Soon after, Fred discovered "The Nikola Tesla Inventors' Club" on meet up and both he and his son David became instrumentally involved and the project became in a few years The Tesla Science Foundation, Fred becoming Vice President. As Fred studied more about Tesla, he learned that Tesla's favorite spot in the city was the New York Public Library, where Nikola famously fed his pigeons.

The UFC Philadelphia and Learning center started the Weekly round table meet-up group, Thinking Thursday in 2014. Fred has been the one of driving forces of the Group. His numerous talks with his passion on topics like Tesla, St Germain ascension masters, 9/11 conspiracy theories, pyramid on the Dollar bill, Coming of the new age inspired hundreds of audiences. Especially his last talk on the 3.6.9 manifestation method kept everyone on edge of the seats.

A little over a month ago, Fred suffered from a stroke he had at work. Following his stroke, he humbled himself down from his 'mission from God' drive. His desire and effort to help humanity was always at the forefront of his life. He has sacrificed self-gratification to luxury. He always stood up for the little guy. However, the biggest gift he could give at the end of his life was the opportunity to give his kids the front seat of his end and start a new beginning, based on the living truth of True Family first. So True Family is how his part of his journey has ended. He came here to play his role in building the Kingdom of Heaven with us all. He ended up building a "Kingdom of Heaven"! May this ascend him to a new chapter, into Eternal Peace and Love!
