Hoping you, your family and city are well.

In these most challenging times, internationally and domestically, the voices of community leaders from diverse areas - faith, academia, government, civil society, law enforcement, etc., - are so needed if we are to effectively deal with the rise of violent crime and seek sustainable solutions. To this end, ACLC is inviting you to join us for our upcoming seminar: Creating Safe Cities: Effective Solutions to Violent Crime, Thursday, March 24, 2022 at 9:00 PM Eastern Standard Time / 6:00 PM Pacific Standard Time.

This seminar will help us all become more aware of the significant research on innovative ways to reduce violent crime. We are honored to have as our presenter, Dr. Irvin Waller, Emeritus Professor, University of Ottawa Canada, an expert on the topic and author of multiple research books, namely The Science and Secrets of Ending Violent Crime. We are also gathering a panel of distinguished responders from across the nation to join, as we explore possible solutions to address issues in the community and awareness of effective methodologies.

The program will air 'live' as a Zoom Webinar event and will also be streamed onto our Facebook page. You can register to join the Zoom Webinar by clicking here.

We invite you to share this invitation and would be honored by your joining us for this program as we search for solutions to healing the communities of our nation.
