

Fundraising Campaign Inspires God-Centered Leadership for Jr. LTF

July 12, 2017

Seattle, Washington: Ten middle and high school students demonstrated their passion for God-centered leadership today at the kickoff for a fundraising campaign as part of Junior Leadership Task Force (Jr. LTF).

Kenshu Aoki talks about spiritual growth and leadership

As a leadership training program, Jr. LTF is a Family Peace Association platform that incorporates cognitive, experiential and spiritual education while encouraging candidates to apply those lessons to their daily life.

Kenshu Aoki introduced the theme of the fundraising project, “Taking Ownership over my Leadership Training.” He emphasized the importance of challenge to personal growth, explaining how fundraising not only contributes a great service to those in need, but also provides an opportunity to set jungsung, a sincere heart to live for the sake of others.

Fundraising also provides individuals with a unique opportunity for self-discovery. “If you have a short temper and get frustrated with your partner, you will see all these things come out,” said Kenshu. “Maybe you thought you were a peaceful person but you easily get mad at your partner. It teaches you lessons for life.”

Jr. LTF prepares for a week of fundraising with handmade boxes

In preparation for the fundraising campaign, Jr. LTF practiced by role-playing with their teammates. Partners worked together to carefully assembled products and portfolios before a quick fundraising run to kick-off the campaign.

Jr. LTF USA fundraisers will spend a week raising money for Love in Lights, an organization that combines solar technology with clean water solutions, education, income generation and public-private partnerships to improve the overall quality of life in impoverished communities in many countries around the world, including the Philippines, Malaysia, Cambodia and Indonesia.

Jr. LTF members from around the world will join the full ten-day program in Indonesia starting on July 30.
