

Absoluteness (2)

Sun Myung Moon

November 21, 2006

True Parents at the 47th True Children's Day celebration

Ilsan Kintex

Absoluteness family and the world kingdom, which are models of God's absolute peace ideals

Photo date and location unknown

The second is the absolute modality that should be preserved more precious than life between couples, that is, the heavenly law of absolute fidelity. Married couples are eternal companions appointed by heaven and are the home of absolute, unique, unchangeable, and eternity of the co-creators who create true love, true life, and true blood by producing children. It is because it is the heavenly reason that you cannot have children even if you live a thousand years alone. How can those who have kept their premarital purity and become a pure heavenly couple can escape from the heavens and cheat? Unlike animals, it is a betrayal and rebellion against the unimaginable Creator if you know the will of God's creation of humans as his children, and it is a way to dig a grave of destruction by yourself. It is a result outside the ideal of creation, which is a result of the fall of man.

Ladies and gentlemen, absoluteness is thus the greatest blessing that Heaven has bestowed upon mankind. This is because character completion, that is, the path of perfection, is impossible without adhering to the standard of absoluteness. Furthermore, it is because, in order for God to establish the status of a person and a real body, it is impossible without securing the foundation of true family absoluteness through perfect human beings. It means that in order for God, who is the Absolute, to direct our lives and live with us, human beings who are His objects and children must have the appearance of a family that has seen completion in absolute sexual standards like God. Only within the framework of a family centered on absoluteness can the ideal model of human life, including grandparents, parents, children, and grandchildren, can be created. Please know for sure that only on top of this expectation is the eternal life of God as well as of mankind.

Therefore, if Adam and Eve, centered on absoluteness, achieved personal completion, that is, character completion according to God's will, formed a marital relationship under God's blessing, and formed complete unity with God, the relationship that God could be in them would have been determined is. Furthermore, even their children may have been linked to the standard of love that allows them to directly establish a rich relationship with God. In other words, the marriage centered on the absoluteness of the completed Adam and Eve would have become God's own marriage. By becoming God and Adam, Eve and God, Adam and Eve became the bodies of God, and God settled in their hearts, and together, they became the true parents of mankind centered on absoluteness in both tangible and intangible worlds.