

CAUSA Flyer: Who knows where the world is headed?

Bo Hi Pak
Circa 1984

The Who Knows where the world is headed? flyer contains information on:

- CAUSA Institute
- CAUSA International
- CAUSA Ministerial Alliance
- CAUSA USA
- Minority Alliance International
- World Services Foundation

What people say about CAUSA...

I am convinced that this movement offers genuine hope for the people of Central America. Surrounded by underdevelopment, filled with corruption, destroyed by violence and attacked by Soviet totalitarianism, our countries urgently need a worldview capable of mobilizing their moral resources to support liberty, justice and peace. The planning and vision of CAUSA offers such a worldview.

Ambassador Amilcar Santamaria
Minister of Information, Honduras

CAUSA excites me. Under that umbrella, brown, black and white people, Christians, Muslims and others, can all come together under God. I believe that you have started something that is very big. I am proud to be a part of it.

Dr. Joseph Paige
Executive Vice President, Shaw Divinity School

I have been morally and spiritually renewed, and brought into a larger fellowship of believers. I highly recommend the CAUSA ideology to Christendom.

Rev. Arthur Windsor
California

CAUSA has not only convinced me—it has made a revolution in my thought pattern! I have received a new awakening. I have experienced new vistas, and I have received new strength to march again in the vanguard to proclaim "a new thrust for freedom." The objective of CAUSA is the rediscovery of God in relation to the universe and the destiny of humankind through the atoning work of Jesus Christ on the cross of Calvary.

Dr. David N. Licorish
Editor and Publisher, "The Baptist" magazine

CAUSA International
401 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10016

For more information, contact:

Who knows

Rev. Don Sturgeon of Los Angeles, (center) co-convenor of a CAUSA conference, meets with members of the clergy.

Alan Inman, Executive Director of MAI, receives a certificate of achievement awarded to MAI by the office of the mayor of the city of Chicago.

CAUSA USA and the CAUSA Ministerial Alliance

CAUSA USA has headquarters in Washington D.C. and representatives in all fifty states. CAUSA USA sponsors the CAUSA Ministerial Alliance, comprised of members of the religious community, many of whom are outstanding figures in their denominations. They are involved with relating the CAUSA Worldview to the needs of their congregations.

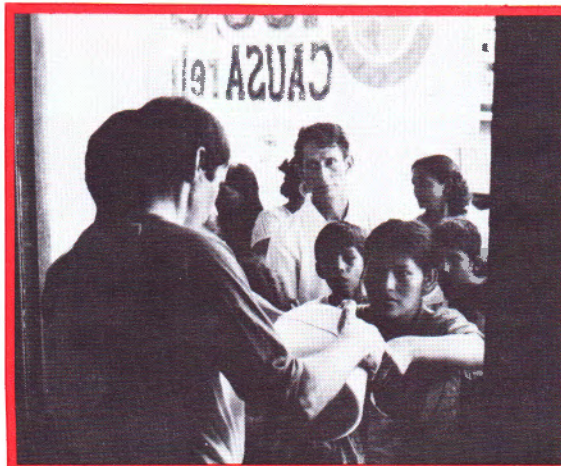

CAUSA USA is a 501-C3 tax exempt organization.

Minority Alliance International (MAI)

MAI is a sister organization of CAUSA, concerned with the protection of civil rights.

World Services Foundation (WSF)

CAUSA makes efforts to relieve the suffering of humankind, and provides models of how its Worldview can be applied through the work of the World Services Foundation. WSF initiates cultural activities, sponsors athletic events and carries out international relief missions and programs.

CAUSA USA President, former U.S. Ambassador Phillip Sanchez addresses leaders of the American ministerial community.

CAUSA International President, Dr. Bo Hi Pak, lectures on the CAUSA Worldview.

CAUSA offers solutions.

CAUSA International was established in 1980 to facilitate the search for responses. CAUSA is a non-profit, non-sectarian educational and social organization which presents a God-affirming perspective of ethics and morality as a basis for free societies. This perspective, known as the CAUSA Worldview, allows conscientious people to work together to vigorously pursue the betterment of the human condition.

CAUSA is concerned and committed to advance democratic ideals and to oppose all forms of totalitarianism, most notably Marxism-Leninism.

CAUSA was founded by Reverend Sun Myung Moon in 1980. There are currently chapters in more than 40 countries in the Americas, Asia and Europe. Each national CAUSA chapter is independent and responsible for all activities in that country. CAUSA seeks donations from concerned individuals and groups.

CAUSA Institute

The CAUSA Institute is primarily engaged in relating the CAUSA Worldview to areas of government, economics, science, philosophy and human needs. It also provides the basic curriculum, staff and materials for many of the CAUSA seminars. The Institute publishes a quarterly journal. The CAUSA Institute involves scholars in seminars and forums pertinent to the subject matter of the CAUSA Worldview.

where the world is headed?

