UPF Eastern Europe in 2022 and Toward 2027

Overview of 2022

In 2022, UPF conducted 150 programs in Eastern Europe, half of them in Albania. The number of Ambassadors for Peace in the region is approximately 6,500. Out of this number, 5,500 are in Albania-Kosovo and 400 are in Russia. The most active national UPF chapters are in Albania, followed by Kosovo, Russia, and Ukraine. Activities are developing well in Georgia and Estonia. Moldova and Belarus conduct big UPF-like activities under other organizations' names due to local legal sensitivities.

Local Peace Councils

UPF-Albania continues to create Ambassador for Peace associations in each municipality (61) of the nation. Such self-regulating Peace Councils allow for many functions to be delegated from UPF staff to Ambassadors for Peace. Moreover, Peace Councils become the place of education and attraction for the growing network, as well as creating protection for inner movement activities.

Audio-Podcasts

UPF Eastern Europe has an audio-podcast channel for UPF programs. Many people nowadays prefer receiving news by listening rather than watching videos or reading texts. Thus, audio content is becoming more important than visual. The Google podcast of the UPF Eastern Europe channel (so far the only one in the world) is rapidly increasing the numbers of its listeners.

Dissemination by Social Networks

The focus of UPF Eastern Europe has been to develop an Internet following. As a result, the total audience of our information outlets (social groups, streaming systems, own site and e-mailing list, Telegram channel and WhatsApp group, audio podcasts) doubled in size to about 10,000 subscribers, and the annual reach amounted to more than 10 million viewers. For now, this technology is fully researched and applied in the Russian language, ready to multiply to other audiences.

Strategy toward 2027

1. Educate a new generation of UPF leaders in Head Wing ideology. The present generation of UPF leaders should formulate and transfer accumulated skills to reach out and give spiritual birth to high-level contacts, besides teaching technical skills.
2. Cooperate with Europe on the one hand and come closer to North Korea and China on the other hand. For that, create a curriculum to overcome the communist past and new emerging nationalistic views toward Head Wing ideology.
3. Find a SunHak Peace Prize laureate among the outstanding people in the former communist world of Eastern Europe.
4. Base work on Eastern Europe's good foundation of traditional strong family values and interfaith cooperation.
5. By 2027 gradually increase the scope of Internet viewership from 10 million to 43 million per year.
6. Strengthen partnerships with the Orthodox Church, Islam and other mainstream religions in the nations.
7. Multiply the Peace Council approach to the other nations.
8. Strengthen service projects in Moldova.
9. Reach out to Serbia based on developing ties with Boris Tadić.
10. Develop the Balkan Peace Initiative, East-West Peace Initiative (Russia-Ukraine), Bering Strait Project, South Caucasus Peace Initiative, Baltic Dialogue.
11. Develop relations with intergovernmental organizations such as ASEAN, BRICS, and Southeast Asian emerging alliances (Cambodia).
12. Among UPF associations, focus especially on IAAP and projects of culture.
