The 20th Annual European Women's Leadership Conference was held this past weekend on the 3rd-5th November in Larnaca, Cyprus

Women's Federation for World Peace held their conference on the theme of: 'Transforming our World through Advancing Peace: a Culture of Peace and Human Dignity'. Attendees included Ms. Moriko H., WFWPI and WFWP President; Ms. Mitty T., WFWP Europe President; Mrs. Philippa K., First Lady of the Republic of Cyprus; H.E. Anneli J., Former Prime Minister of Finland and many other distinguished guests. The conference was a huge success with engaging panel discussions and networking between women from different backgrounds and countries. Session topics included- 'The Invaluable Contribution of Women to Peace Education' and 'The Importance of Women's Voices in Creating a Culture of Peace: The Middle East Perspective seen from within and from the outside'. A key theme that came up during the conference was that the key to peace, is a Mother's heart. Many women were also rewarded 'Global Women Peace Ambassador Awards' to show appreciation for all the hard work they do towards achieving peace.

Here are some testimonies from UK members who were in attendance-

Sophia N.- "I really had the most incredible time at the conference this weekend. I was able to hear from and meet so many incredible women from across Europe and the Middle East. We were able to talk about steps that need to be taken regarding current world affairs and valuable discussions were held. I felt so much love and joy from everyone there, and I am so grateful for all of the new bonds that I was able to form. I've left the conference feeling very inspired and moved and I cannot wait to have further involvement with WFPW activities in the future."
