Oath: a solemn promise, often invoking a divine witness, regarding one's future action or behaviour.

We came into this world through our parent's commitment to God and True Parents, and now we stand here in this present moment as the next generation. What will we pass on? What is our purpose? Who do we want to become?

This winter workshop, we want to support each other in understanding our roots, making sense of our current realities, and finding strength and courage together. We want to go deeper and find clarity in our matching and blessing tradition True Parents gave. The answers are not waiting for us in some faraway place, but maybe they are within us, in our original nature and God. Let us transcend the now and make ourselves a resting place for God. Let us strive to create future families where God can dwell. It's a calling to be clear and deeply rooted in our spiritual life, not just our personal ambitions.

It is our turn to take responsibility in our life of faith and go further in offering our Oath to God as we enter the new year. More than ever, God needs you. What is God personally calling for you to do? Let us end our year together as a family and start the new year Clear, Centered and Transcendent.

The workshop directors for this workshop will be Grace T. and Pyong Chan D., with Samuel S. as Coordinator. For any enquiries, please email harp@ffwpu.org.uk.
