On South Korea's 70th Anniversary of its Liberation Day, FFWPU held the "Multicultural Youth Camp" in hopes for Korean reunification and peace at the "World Jamboree Camping Site" in Goseong-gun of Gangwon-do, the northern end of the eastern coast of South Korea, under the theme, "Let's Become the Light of Peace and Unification."

At the opening ceremony on August 7, FFWPU Korean President Kyeong-Seuk Ryu delivered the opening address. He encouraged the participants by saying, "Please enjoy and get together in harmony, and unite through this camp, which practices the vision of peace and unification. If, by doing so, you can become a light and beacon of hope to save the friends around you who are wandering with no place to go, then, world citizens shall call you victors."

On the morning of August 8, an event called "ROAD of Unification with Multicultural Youths" was held at the DMZ Museum in Goseong. The event was held in collaboration with "PEACE ROAD 2015," the journey to establish a foundation for peaceful reunification and to promote international peace so that they could provide vision and hope for peace and unification to multicultural youths. President Ryu, Chairman of Citizen's Federation for Unification Byung-Ho Son, Vice-Governor of Goseong Won-Suk Han and Chairman of Goseong County Council Hyung-Shil Kim provided support by participating in the event.

In the evening, a "Peace Concert" was held with performances by the "Sunhak Children's Choir," the band "Rebirth," "Hyo Jin Moon Band," College Students Team, Multicultural Youths team and professional artists such as Soo-Bin Kang and "4Men."
