

Las Vegas Family Church Organizes Half-Day Divine Principle Seminar

Ken Doo
March 19, 2016

On Saturday, over 20 UNLV students, youth and family members attended the half-day Divine Principle Seminar entitled, "What is Happiness?" Reverend Andy Compton shared an overview of the Divine Principle as well as the vision of creating a world of peace through the Marriage Blessing ceremony. Seven guests who have been studying various levels of the Divine Principle attended their first workshop at the Peace Center. The goal of the workshop was to educate participants that the route to true, lasting happiness requires a society and world founded upon universal principles and the Marriage Blessing.

The Las Vegas Family Church hosts half-day Divine Principle seminars once every month to prepare guests on the path towards a life of true love through the Blessing. "When I look back at my past relationships, I can see that it wasn't about true love," reflected Priscilla, a senior at UNLV. "Reverend Compton explains how to achieve happiness in a simple and relatable way," shared Richard, a graduate student at UNLV. All the participants and family members enjoyed the experience and are looking forward to attending either a two-day or a seven-day program in the future.