Last Saturday evening, May 11th, fifteen Middle and High-schoolers gathered for another awesome Youth Night! The previous Youth Nights were mainly focused on having fun, getting comfortable with each other and making connections. Of course, this past Youth Night was fun, but it was a little more internal.

The evening started out with snacks and a fun ice-breaker name game. Then the group played a game called fishbowl which requires the kids to be creative and think quick.

After the games, Youth leader, M. Taguchi, gave a testimony about coming to love and respect our faith community. She talked about how her parent's dedication to the movement got her curious to find out what it was all about. She also shared about an experience from her participation in Generation Peace Academy, when she was humbled by the love we have in our church community. She realized how we have something special compared to the rest of the world.

Afterwards, the kids split up into three discussion groups to talk about what came up for them during the testimony. They talked about their struggles but also what they are grateful for about the community we have.

The kids found the night to be fun, interesting, and deep.
