The official opening of HyoJeong Café, where people around the world gather with HyoJeong

The official opening ceremony of HyoJeong Café was held on 9.15 in the 5th year of Cheon Il Guk (November 3, 2017) with the members from various countries. On 9.16 of Cheon Il Guk (November 4), there was also a 'Tasting Event to celebrate the opening of the HyoJeong Café' with True Parents. During the Great Works, we were able to see the members who waited in a long line for drinks and meals, and enjoyed a sweet break by drinking a beverage while looking over the Cheonshim lake. After the dedication ceremony of HyoJeong Café had been held on 7.19 of the heavenly calendar (September 9, 2017) with True Parents, it was officially opened this time.

True Parents also came early to visit the HyoJeong Café on 9.11 by the heavenly calendar in the 5th year of Cheon Il Guk (October 30, 2017), which was four days before the official opening ceremony. True Parents arrived at the 3rd floor around 10:00am and went down to the Jaemi In Shop on the 1st floor where They carefully chose the gift and purchased 50 ties.

True Parents blessed the HyoJeong Café saying that, "It will become a pilgrimage site of the world." The building's 1st, 2nd and 3rd fl. allow people to experience different cultures of the world while the 4th fl. carries an observatory that allows people to feel the heart of True Parents towards the world back in the early days. The HyoJeong Marina, situated next to the HyoJeong Café is also built upon the site of Chung Pyung Holy Ground. Both buildings are the starting point and the fruit of world providence and an education facility that promotes the providence of restoration including the activities of Heavenly Tribal Messiahs.

First of all, 'Jaemi In Shop' which is a convenience store on the 1st fl., is a place where members who visit Korea for the pilgrimage of HyoJeong Cheonwon Chung Pyung Holy Ground` are able to purchase special souvenirs of Korea. The name, 'Jaemi In Shop' was given by True Parents which means a 'fashionable and exciting' space that provides 'convenience and fun (jaemi).' In Jaemi In Shop, you can shop while overlooking the Cheonshim Lake. Because it is located closest to the water surface, you can almost feel the water and experience the atmosphere of True Parents fishing in the early days. Products sold at the Jaemi In Shop feel like a gift from True Parents to members from all over the world who visit the HyoJeong Cheonwon Chung Pyung Holy Ground.

On the 2nd fl., you can enjoy Japanese food at the food court. If we look into the words of True Parents in the early days of Chung Pyung Holy Ground, they spoke of a concept of cultural villages from each nation. HyoJeong Food Court is a place where you can experience Japanese culture. In particular, True Parents cared for the many Japanese families living abroad in Korea to enjoy the taste of their home country. As we enjoy Japanese food while overlooking Cheonshim Lake, we can hear the comforting voice of True Parents saying, "Life abroad must be hard for you." The menu carries 21 dishes largely divided into 5 types of Japanese food: ramen, donburi, tonkatsu, udon, and soba noodles. The base soups for the noodles such as ramen, udon, and soba are made through the Japanese native katsuobushi. Fried foods are characterized by their fresh crispness because they are fried once ordered. If you reserve in advance, you can also use private dining rooms that seats up to 8 people.

Café Kona Queens on the 3rd fl. is a place where you can experience European culture, the home of the coffee culture. True Parents also loved the coffee culture and it is a culture of true love where members from all over the world can have a drink and share a heart-to-heart interaction.

The origin of the Café goes back to the age of the Ottoman Empire (today as, Turkey). The first café was opened in Istanbul in 1611, it was called a Hane. The word Café may be traced to the Turkish word Hane. The French followed suit and opened the store called Café in Paris in 1654. Since then, cafés have become a culture in France. This culture also began to spread in Korea in the late 1980s and is now also part of the modern culture.

As you drink coffee overlooking Cheonshim Lake, you can resonate with the heart of True Parents who took short breaks with a cup of coffee during their fierce battles of the world providence centering on United States. The menu carries a variety of coffee, beverages, and cakes, including True Parents' beloved Kona coffee.

As you ascend to the observation deck on the 4th fl., you will notice the fishing poles displayed around the pillar near the entrance. These are the fishing poles that True Parents actually used. Next to the fishing poles, on a stainless steel plate, is the description of the relationship between True Parents' ocean providence and the HyoJeong Café. And next to it are photograph exhibitions of True Parents' memories related to Cheonshim Lake. By reading the explanation below, one can get a deeper understanding of the historical background of HyoJeong Café.

At the observatory, you can look at the CL from the highest point of HyoJeong Café. On the opposite side stands Seonin Peak, and a little to the right stands Cheonsa Jang (islet). In the early days of Chung Pyung Holy Ground, True Parents said, "I wish there was an island over there." One day, heavy rain flooded the area and a shore appeared after the water dried up. Next to Cheonsajang Shore stands the country cottage Cheonyu Jang which is now used as a student training center by Chung Pyung Training Center during the summers. There are two places where True Parents spent most of their time setting fishing conditions along Cheonshim Lake. One place was under Seonin Peak and the other was between Cheonsa Jang and Cheonyu Jang. Overlooking Cheonshim Lake from the observatory, one can feel True Parents' heart as they prepared for the world providence by setting up fishing conditions.

In this way, HyoJeong Café is a Holy Ground that allows visitors to become 'global citizens' by experiencing Korean, Japanese and European culture and then coming up to the observatory to learn True Parents' heart of love towards the world.

The 4th fl. also has a conference room that can be reserved. It can hold up to 15 people and carries an 84-inch large LED monitor. Using this venue for church related seminars as well as Heavenly Tribal Messiah activities will have greater synergy effects through the beautiful background of Cheonshim Lake.
