Me in Moscow's Red Square

In late 1983 or early 1984, I had a dream foretelling a dramatic event on a world scale that would happen in Moscow, U.S.S.R., and would change history!

In the dream I was standing outside Moscow airport watching a history event taking place. It was actually a rally held at Moscow airport. Despite intervention from the government, hundreds of thousands of people jammed the airport with media from all over the world, waiting for the arrival of an important leader who was coming with a message of hope and change! The man they were waiting for was the Rev. Sun Myung Moon! As my wife once told me, "dreams don't lie." See this dream below and observe how crystal clear it was, confirming facts about future events with the World Media Conference. It was clear the dream revealed the imminent end of Communism, which was brought about by Father Moon! The following is the dream: Moscow Dream...

I dreamed I was standing while watching a rally held at the Moscow airport. People were waiting at the airport arrival gate for a very significant figure who was to bring them freedom, prosperity and change. There were government agents in uniforms beating people over their heads and shoulders with big batons. The agents were trying to stop the rally and disperse the people from gathering to meet this important man. The people were strongly pushed forward to the arrival door. There were many television cameras paused at all angles. Newspaper journalists, photographers and television reporters from all over the world gathered at the door with great anticipation. Suddenly, the man people were waiting for, the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, walked through the door. News reporters, photographers and TV cameras rushed forward to Father Moon. Television cameras zoomed in on him, and cameras flooded the place with flashlights. An American TV reporter was going wild in joyful disbelief. He was reporting the news, screaming loudly and saying, "My God, he did it! My God, he did it!" -- of Father's arrival in the Soviet Union. While this was going on, the people were still pressing forward to see Father Moon. Government agents, in fear of being caught by TV cameras, stopped hitting people on their heads and shoulders while still trying to stop people from coming forward. The people were so compressed together, there was no room for the agents to hit hard, so they finally gave up. The pictures were so real!

Cameras recorded close pictures of Father Moon walking in fast with a huge crowd of press and dignitaries. Following the dramatic entrance, Father Moon and I were alone on the other side of the airport inside the Soviet Union. Suddenly, Father Moon became double! As he was walking in, he kept on switching from one person and then back to his real self. This other person, which Father Moon kept on switching into, was shorter, smaller, different in appearance, and had a shiny bald head. The end.

Fast forward to the actual event I saw in the dream. I found that not only had the dream come true but, most importantly, what it had foreshadowed. It is amazing that seven years after I had this dream, Father Moon, held the 11th World Media Conference in Moscow in 1990! In real life, Moon, a staunch anti-communist, had visited Moscow with the World Media Association, which was sponsored by The Washington Times Foundation, an organization he founded. More than 3,000 diplomats, journalists, TV reporters and 50 former heads of state attended the conference. Seven years after I had this dream, God made sure that I was put in place to witness the physical birth of my dream. God works in mysterious ways! My wife and I were selected from the UTS (Unification Theological Seminary) staff to be part of the World Media staff in Moscow. From thousands of Unification Church leaders and more than 40 UTS professors and employees, my wife and I were among the very few selected! Could this be a coincidence? Upon hearing the news of going to Moscow, the "Moscow Dream" suddenly began to replay in my mind, just like a videotape. I was so astonished to receive a powerful prophetic dream of such magnitude. Father Moon's dramatic arrival in Moscow was so strong in the dream. The scenes in the dream were so crystal clear I was compelled to write a letter to Dr. David S.C. Kim, founding president of the Unification Theological Seminary (UTS), to tell him about my dream. Interesting I still have that letter.

However, few years after the 11th world media conference in Moscow event, while I was reading the Moscow dream. Wondering about the fascinating part of the dream where Father Moon transfigured into another person and to his real self. I began to analyze my dream, reflected and wondered who Father Moon was turning into? Suddenly, it dawned on me that the person Father Moon transfigured into was none other than Dr. Song Han Lee, head of V.O.C teaching (Victory Over Communism)! The dream was very revealing, not only because of Moon's transmogrifications but, also, most importantly, how the dream symbolized Dr. Lee. He symbolized Father Moon's thoughts about the V.O.C. In other words, Father Moon walked into the Soviet Union "On the Wings of his Victory Over Communism!"
