Brothers and sisters! I may not have reached perfection yet, but I believe I have an uncontested faith in True Parents!

As I was searching the internet on dreams, I stumbled on a dream I had few months ago on an early morning. It was a fascinating dream, I thought I should share it. I had this dream at dawn, which woke me up full of energy and light as feather..

I tell you, True Parents save! All one needs to do, is believe and be saved! Here is how I had posted it.." It's now 3:47 am and I just got up from sleep after I had a powerful dream, feeling so light and full of energy, I couldn't go back to sleep.

The dream.

I was climbing a tall tower with another person, the tower was so high, approximately 60 story high, when suddenly, the tower began to sway and snapped broken and came down with us. As we start falling I began to call on True Parents for safety, shouting aloud about seven times, True Parents! True Parents! True Parents! and before I knew it, I landed like a feather on the grounds standing on my feet. It was indescribable moment of awe and glory! I looked at the person with whom I was climbing and wanted to be sure he saw and understood what had happened, and I asked that person straight blank, " Did you hear me? Did you hear me? What was I was saying when we were falling?" ..." I was calling the name of True Parents" do you understand? True Parents saved us. The world need to know this. And I began shouting my longs out, "Reverend Sun Myung Moon is the Messiah and savior of the whole world!!! I had a feeling the people who witnessed the accident would not dare disbelieving this miracle. End of dream.

...Now, I am going to brew me a cup of coffee and read the Divine Principle, Rev. Moon's teaching."

The interesting part of this, only couple of days ago, I finished a 40-day repentance prayer condition. Also, in the last week or so, I was deeply thinking about the Divine Principle Resurrection chapter and thought of making plan to read it. So, after I woke up from the dream, I was so high and full of energy, so I made me a cup of coffee and decided to read the resurrection chapter. I paged through the black Divine Principle and came to the chapter. I read the whole chapter, about 14 pages, when I realized that the chapter I just finished reading was not the resurrection chapter, it was the Restoration chapter. Huh!. I guess God/ Spiritual world wanted to remind me of the long suffering course of restoration. Also, the restoration chapter emphasized the importance of the Foundation of Faith and Foundation of Substance. Interesting!!! For those who don't understand these "Foundation" terminologies, I suggest they need to have a copy of the Divine Principle and read it for themselves.
