

Concert for a North Korean Medical Project

Robin Marsh
April 12, 2014

A Universal Peace Federation (UPF) - UK, YouthUPF and International Relief Friendship Foundation (IRFF) - UK concert to raise money for a North Korean Medical Project was held last night in UPF's UK Head Quarters last night featuring wonderful singers and musicians who donated their efforts for the cause. The audience was also able to enjoy spicy Korean food as well as learn about the jointly supported North Korean Medical Project and other IRFF humanitarian efforts. Photo Link

Many efforts by Margaret Ali, Christa Kamga, Peter Graham and Ashley Crosthwaite and others brought this concert together. There was great support from many others to prepare food and other items. The YouthUPF Ribbons 38 project was also promoted during the programme. A North Korean Children's Hospital has received five container loads from European UPF and IRFF-UK during the last two years.

There were 15 performances during the evening from a wide range of cultures and styles.

Ashley Crosthwaite explained the development of the North Korean Medical Project that has been coordinated by Mark Brann, European Secretary General of Universal Peace Federation. He outlined the types of equipment and supplies that had been sent already.

Please see the Just Giving Details below to support this project. Thank you to everyone for their support, efforts and performances. There are some clips of some of the songs on Facebook through the links below.
