And He answered and said to them, "Have you not read that He who made them at the beginning 'made them male and female,' and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh'? So then, they are no longer two but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, let not man separate." Matthew 19:4-6

Two persons should become absolutely one through pure love. No one can fulfill this by himself. Man and woman are two beings, so how can they become one absolute being? The basis for absolute family which is a model of absoluteness, peace and ideal is none else than sexual organs of man and woman.

We cannot make a final solution to the fundamental issues of the universe without referring to sexual organs. That's how precious they are. You all - men and women - have them. Things like free sex or homosexuality must be shattered into pieces, buried, extinguished in the world of heavenly law. People born in such a lineage are scary. But how do we return to the original state?

God's main attributes are absoluteness, uniqueness, eternity and immutability. There is nothing higher to aspire for than absolute spouses, peaceful spouses and ideal spouses.

The lineage was changed because of the Fall. It was the same as if some bandit kidnapped the bride right at the wedding ceremony and she later gave birth to his children.

Dear

Since the 2nd King and Queen are driving out to Las Vegas where we will celebrate God's Day and the 100th Anniversary of True Father's birth, a video of a very deep and meaningful talk that Hyung Jin Nim and Yeonah Nim gave on January 30, 2013 was shown. Here are some of the key themes:

The main issue is the ownership of the sexual organs. Satan invaded the lineage through their misuse, but God will reclaim the lineage through their intended use.

DIVIDING LINE between Heaven and Hell (Sunday Service 1/19/2020)

They spoke about the need for repentance. Even if we have not committed such sins as murder, theft or adultery we have committed other sins. Yeonah Nim confessed that there were times that she resented

God. Father gave a prophecy to her parents that they would give birth to a great military general, but they had 3 daughters and a son who had brain damage at his birth. When True Father asked her to give her testimony, she confessed that at times she had resentment towards him because of this false prophecy. But he said "who says a war general has to be a man? A woman can be a great war general, too!" With those words her resentment melted.

Hyung Jin Nim explained that repentance is not about hating yourself for your sins. Then your focus is still on yourself. Acknowledge your insufficiency, but then glorify God. Father said that if you have an empty cup then God can pour in His grace.

This does not mean we should take God's forgiveness for granted and think we can keep on sinning. That would be like peeing on someone, apologizing, and then doing it again. We would not do that to another human being, but God is more precious than any human being and yet many keep on abusing Him.

We should not be legalists like the Pharisees. Then we would be like Satan who also was proud of his intellect and accomplishments and looked down on Adam and Eve.

Hyung Jin Nim confessed that he realized that he also had sin, that there were times that he resented and doubted God. He never murdered anyone, but there were times when he threw God's heart over a cliff. We should not look down on those whom God in His grace chooses to forgive, but just say "God is great!"

Many of us did not take True Father's Absolute Sex teaching seriously, or were ashamed and embarrassed when he spoke about this topic.

Yeonah Nim said many brothers and sisters feel judged by the discussion of Absolute Sex since their marital relationship and intimacy were far away from that standard. But even though we are not perfect now, we can make one step forward and God will add His blessing to take us two steps more.

Hyung Jin Nim asked "what is our heroic mission?" Advocates of "Bad Sex" believe they will stop AIDS and save the world through promoting "Sexual Rights" and condom education. All of us want to think that we have a heroic purpose, but what is it?

We say we will accomplish "world peace" but how? We will establish God's Kingdom through practicing Absolute Good Sex. Men who focus on making their wives happy are healthier, happier and make more income. When couples are fulfilled with each other they are also giving joy to God.

"Living with your enemy" is marital torture. Many in that situation have no hope. But if that relationship is healed by God and improves, then your relationship changes from hell to heaven.

Yeonah Nim said that several sisters have approached her, saying "I don't think about sex all the time," but women love romantic stories which in the end always culminate in sexual union of the lovers. So ultimately women are also thinking about sex.

Having a good sex marriage gives joy to God, to your family and the community. Countries in which the majority practice bad sex are committing demographic suicide since those couples have no commitment to each other or to any offspring created through their "bad sex." That is why so many destroy their unborn children through abortion or if the babies survive the birth process, they are abandoned or neglected, instead of being cherished as precious gifts from God.

FFWPU Teaches What Hak Ja Han WILL NOT

After we finished watching the video, I asked, "Who do you want to follow? Someone who is demanding that you worship them, like the Only Begotten Daughter, or someone who is humbly willing to confess their faults?"

Several FFWPU brothers were angry with me for reporting that the Han Mother is teaching that greed caused the Fall. They say that while the act was misuse of sex, greed was a motivation for the Fall.

Actually, I agree. You could say that resentment, pride, excessive desire or greed were motivations that caused the Fall, but the act was the misuse of sexual love. These Family Fed brothers are willing to teach what Hak Ja Han is not willing to teach- the sexual act through which the Fall occurred. But that only makes Satan happy since he then gets to keep on hiding his crime while the human race continues to be deceived and suffer under his dominion. If America and other nations do not know and practice Good Sex, their future will be dark.

Instead of being happy that Hyung Jin Nim and Yeonah Nim were speaking about Father's teaching, the Han mother was angry and insisted that they stop teaching about it immediately. A few weeks later she had them fired. Now she almost never mentions Father's name and is unwilling to affirm even the most basic of his teachings.

We should be so grateful that this couple did not simply walk away after being fired, but were willing to stand in their position, even when the foundation that True Father wanted them to have was stolen away. As we approach God's Day and the celebration of True Father's 100th birthday, let us empty ourselves and lift up God, True Father and be proud of the couple he loved, trusted and anointed! Then God's grace will be able to come down on this earth.

reviewed by Stephen Stacey

Sex and Culture by J.D. Unwin is a study in the core reasons for the rise and fall of civilizations. The amount of positive energy for growth which a culture displays is directly proportional to the intensity of pre-marital abstinence and postmarital-fidelity that a culture displays. Just as a decrease of sexual opportunity produces a cultural advance, so an increase in sexual opportunity results in a cultural decline.

SEX AND CULTURE BY J. D. UNWIN, 1934.
A study in the core reasons for the rise and fall of civilisations

I summarized some of Unwin's main findings from the last chapter of his book – just for ease of access.

You can read the whole book by downloading it from here. archive.org/details/b20442580

The amount of positive energy for growth which a culture displays is directly proportional to the intensity of pre-marital abstinence and post-marital-fidelity that a culture displays. Just as a decrease of sexual opportunity produces a cultural advance, so an increase in sexual opportunity results in a cultural decline. There are 4 types of post marital-culture.

Modified monogamous and modified polygamous cultures (modified = they allowed for divorce). The cultures that adopted either of these traditions ultimately declined as all sexual norms were negatively affected by allowing for divorce.

Any culture that adopted a tradition of absolute, no divorce, polygamy – preserved but did not increase its tradition. It finds it hard to adopt new ideas; it remains content with its old institutions.

Any culture that adopted a tradition of absolute, no divorce, monogamy – created energy that was transferred into growing and expanding that culture. In the first few generations that energy was transferred into expanding that culture into other lands. After three generations, a rapid development of new ideas always started to be displayed in both the science and the arts. An advanced civilization is being born. All the great civilizations – the Greek, the Roman, the Sumerian, the Babylonian, the Teutonic, the Anglo-Saxon, the Protestant British – ALL started from the exact same foundation – the expectation of both absolute monogamy and chastity before marriage. All these cultures then went through the process of relaxing their sexual norms – and then went into terminal decay. In the history of man there is no example of a society displaying great energy for any appreciable period unless it has been absolutely monogamous. Moreover, all absolutely monogamous societies automatically end up displaying great energy. A culture can have different groups who display different sexual norms. Ultimately, though, a culture becomes dominated by the group that displays the greatest energy – the group that displays the most control over its sexual passions.

No society can display productive social energy unless a new generation inherits a social system under which sexual opportunity is reduced to a minimum.

The only societies that could encourage young men and women to be abstinent before marriage were deistic cultures (as opposed to manistic ancestor worship cultures, and zoistic, we are at the mercy of nature, cultures). If a society permits pre-nuptial sexual freedom, or insists only on an irregular or occasional self-control, it automatically becomes zoistic or manistic in nature.

It has always been the case that it is impossible to maintain a high level of marital fidelity if a culture permits sexual freedom before marriage.

Throughout history, the process of creating absolute monogamous cultures – cultures that grew and flourished and become major civilizations – was always dependent on the subjugation of women's rights (e.g.; property rights, inheritance rights, etc). As the cultures grew and become more refined and cultured, the awareness of the disadvantaged state of married women also grew. This compelled a demand for more rights for women, and with more rights there also came the demand for divorce and also increased levels of sexual promiscuity, and the ultimate decay of these cultures – and often to many appalling outcomes especially for growing numbers of men, women and children. Human societies have never been seen to overcome this paradox – we have never been able to create a society whereby both men and women are respected as equals and at the same time – been able to create the environment where pre-marital abstinence and post-marital fidelity became the expected social norm. The culture that could achieve this fine balance would unleash incredible social forces that would benefit men, women and children and become a culture that blossoms on into the future.
