Why the Afterlife Begins in this World

UPF-Seminar in Bonn, Germany, 22./23. March 2014

The theme of the seminar "Lebensraum Eternity" attracted many people from very different backgrounds and of different ages. In the hectic of everyday life many of us are missing out on dealing thoroughly with questions about the meaning of life in this world and about life after death. However, the large number of participants of the seminar was the living proof that there is a very strong interest in these questions.

From the first minute of the event our speaker Johannes Stampf (from Vienna, Austria) succeeded in reaching the audience both intellectually and from the heart. Based on his book "Lebensraum Eternity" Johannes explained key insights in the earthly and the spiritual worlds and the possibilities of human development in both dimensions of life.

Numerous questions and the brief comments and remarks of the participants showed how intense they individually deal with the topics of the lectures. The sharing of personal experiences enriched the content of the seminar. Thus, the attention of the audience remained always on a very high level during the full two days.

During the breaks, there was plenty of opportunity to make new acquaintances and to share and discuss the things heard.

Friendly helpers provided for drinks, a wonderful buffet, coffee and cakes and more... The participants really enjoyed these physical treats.

UPF Bonn encourages anyone interested to address “Lebensraum Ewigkeit” also in the future and thus offers the chance to deepen this topic in an ongoing discussion group. The website of Johannes Stampf (www.lebensraum-ewigkeit.at) also provides a lot of precious information free of charge.
