Camp KOHOE had another successful year, their main highlight being their Challenge Day. Participants broke out into smaller teams in which they could get to know each other better. Activities provided team bonding.

Staff member Immanuel Rinkema spoke on confidence, and other staff members also gave guidance to participants.

“I can really relate and feel the staff’s testimonies will help me in the future,” said a camper.

“They gave a lot of insight on individual feelings and the overall matching process,” remarked a camper on a lecture about the Marriage Blessing and engagement process. Overall, the campers felt a sense of brother- and sisterhood with the staff, who mentored them and answered their questions throughout their time together.
