

UFWP USA: Fusayo Irikura, WFPW Jordan, is a fearless advocate for children!

Dear,

Help children find hope in their future!

Fusayo Irikura, President of WFPW Jordan and founder of the Arabic Literacy Project in Jordan, reports the project has met much success since it started 5 years ago: “Children have a place where they can enjoy studying and have a variety of experiences. They have improved their scholastic ability and character. We have seen less fighting, and, instead, we have seen smiles on their faces. Before, the children often played in the streets and resorted to physical violence with each other, creating an unsafe environment. Due to horrible circumstances, they became influenced to smoke, do drugs, and engage in criminal behavior. They never wanted to become thieves, but they were poor and needed to have money to survive...When a child gains basic education, they...keep hope in their future.”

Watch Mrs. Irikura's heartwarming testimony below.

Relatively 40 percent of Jordan's ten million population have only attained the education equal to that of school-aged children. With the growing influx of refugees, it is hard for the children to stay on top of their studies. How can we help refugee children get better access to a quality education?

You can greatly impact their lives by contributing to the Arabic Literacy Project. Mrs Irikura and her team of volunteers provide academic and important extracurricular activities in a safe environment in their center. Thanks to your generous support, WFWP has raised $1415, 35% of our goal of $4,000!

While literacy and reading comprehension is essential, WFWP also stresses the importance of character building through drama performances, social interactive scenarios, sports, and games. All donations will go toward renovating the rented centers, replace old plastic chairs and tables with new ones, and purchase new school materials for the children and staff. Your donations will provide funds towards the project run by Mrs. Irikura, who does all her work as a volunteer, together with the many university students who donate their time to tutor the students.

Al-Zarqa, Jordan is a city industrious in its working style and modest in culture. The city houses approximately nine million refugees for whom the hope of resettlement has become a remote possibility. The refugee encampments are grindingly poor where daily survival is a struggle.

Of the nine million refugees in the city, 60% are children. These children have access to school but many are still unable to read or write in their local language due to poor facilities. Classrooms in the public schools have as many as 60 students, which makes learning and individualized attention difficult. The drop-out rate from these schools is also high. Many graduate still unable to read and write at the appropriate level.

HOPE FOR A BRIGHTER FUTURE

The hope for providing these children with a bright future has come through the “Arabic Literacy Program for Children” for students ages 8 to 15.

Students in the program learn how to read and write, which is essential for creating a more sustainable future of happiness and success. WFWP Jordan is running literacy classes at the WFWP and Community Development Centers (CDC) located in the refugee camps. The project aims to improve the levels of literacy among the children, and also to instill values in them which can help them overcome the psychological damage that comes from the unstable life of a refugee.

WFWP Jordan hopes to continue restoring the future of their children through a carefully designed program. At each center of WFWP and CDC, 30 students have been taken in who are taught a curriculum tailored to their learning capabilities. The program lasts a year long with a summer break in between.

In order to continue their work of educating these children, they need your help!

Please donate today so that WFWP is able to pay its teachers, recruit volunteers, and assemble educational materials necessary for creating a safe and loving learning environment. The transformation in the children as they are able to improve their academic abilities while also being emotionally and morally supported is invaluable.

Help us set new standards of humanity, care, and dignity for these children.
