Greetings from Zambia!

Hi Everyone! My name is Sean Warden and I'm a Young Adult Cheon il Guk Missionary(CIG) in Zambia. Last year, I served four months as a missionary in Nairobi, Kenya as a part of my third year on Generation Peace Academy. During that time, I experienced our True Parents' boundless heart for humanity. It was a life-changing and unforgettable experience.

Last September, I decided to return to Africa for six months as a Young Adult Missionary in Lusaka, Zambia. I feel it is especially important for the youth to be involved in the providence as there are not so many years left to be serving our True Parents on earth.

"To put it another way, in order for the democratic world to win over the communist world, the United States must become one with Africa. America must become one with Asia. From this standpoint, the presidents who will lead the United States in the future must know for sure. What is America's mission? America cannot be just for Americans."

For the past two months, we have been holding Divine Principle workshops for university students near the HJ Training Center in Barlastone, Lusaka Province. In December, we held our very first 7-day Divine Principle workshop with 33 participants. We had more guests than mattresses to sleep on! It was inspiring to see so much culture, heart, and wisdom shared in just seven days.

This fundraiser supports our workshops for the next four months. Normally, CIG missionaries fundraise in their mission countries, however; due to the recent financial and safety issues in Zambia, we are unable to fundraise here. The upcoming workshops are: On January 23rd, we will be holding another 7-day Divine Principle workshop; and on February 5th, we will host a 21-day workshop. Our fundraiser goal is set to 72,000 ZMW or 4000 USD to ensure dorm accommodations, education materials, and meals can be provided at our future workshops. The cost for one person to attend a workshop is just $4/day. $4000 will allow 35 participants to join both the 7-day and 21-day workshops. Any additional funds will go towards future workshops and renovating workshop dorms at the HJ Training Center.
