Headwing Economics and Justice University

Forging Partnerships to build an Economy for Peace, Shared Prosperity and Freedom

2 PM, Tuesday, Nov 18, 2025

Today's program is a follow-up to the presentation on Louis Kelso's significant contributions to economic theory that was given during the September 27 IAED online conference on Headwing Economics. The speakers are volunteers with The Center for Economic and Social Justice, an all-volunteer educational center carrying on the legacy of Louis Kelso to create a Just Third Way beyond our polarized economic and political world of today. They will share the vision for creating Justice University - a free ten-week course on the principles of the Just Third Way and the economic theory and insights behind Louis Kelso's critique and counterproposal of traditional economic theories, revealing how a true free-market system can be built to realize an economy of mutual prosperity. The Justice University course is being prepared for course credit with an accredited traditional university.

About the Speakers

Dawn K. Brohawn

Dawn is a co-founder, executive committee member, and Director of Communications of the Center for Economic and Social Justice (CESJ). She has written articles, co-authored books, and organized forums on economic democratization, the Just Third Way, and Justice-Based Management. Ms. Brohawn co-founded, manages and teaches in CESJ's Justice University and global Internship and Fellowship Programs. Her two most recent books are Economic Personalism, 2020; and The Greater Reset, 2022, co-authored with CESJ's Director of Research, Michael Greaney

Mark Plotkin

Marc Plotkin recently retired as a Civil Rights Attorney with the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, where he had a 38-year career enforcing the nation's laws against discrimination in employment. In particular, he authored precedential decisions on sexual harassment, compensatory damages, disparate impact, and class actions.

Marc has been a volunteer with the Center for Economic and Social Justice since 2020 and was elected to CESJ's board of directors in 2025. His work with CESJ focuses on educating people about the teachings of Louis Kelso and other proponents of economic justice. Toward that end, he helped develop the on-line version of CESJ's Justice University.

Dave Hamill

Dave Hamill is the Coordinator and a board member the Economic Democracy Act Network, a 501c4. He is also the founding owner of Esteo Group Inc. (Excellent Service Through Employee Ownership) in Atlanta Georgia. He is a project manager of The Center for Economic and Social Justice, a 501c4 where he helped develop JusticeUniversity.org. He studied business at Louisiana State University and has worked in sales, petroleum transportation, and price risk management as a Series 3 licensed broker.
