September 25, 2023

Job Description:

Family Federation for World Peace and Unification USA is seeking content writers for our public website FamilyFed.org. If you are a strong writer who deeply understands the teachings of the Divine Principle and is excited to share those beliefs with a public audience, then this position might be the right fit for you. The style of writing is informative and engaging. Most posts will be written in the third person.

Responsibilities:

Write informative and engaging blog posts to help Family Fed express our core beliefs and practices clearly for newcomers. The average length of a blog post should be 800 words with sources. Writers will work with an editor to ensure the tone and quality of the piece is appropriate for the Family Fed audience, as well as to double-check sources. The ideal frequency of blog posts per writer would be a minimum of two blog posts per month, but this can be discussed. Some writers may be asked to work on select projects related to the website or marketing on an as-needed basis.

Reporting: Writers will report to the Communications Project Manager, Sungmi Holdhus. She may assign them to work with the Newsletter Editor.

Compensation: Per word for blog posts. Per deliverable for all other projects. The rate will be determined based on the writer's level of experience.

Location: Remote

To Apply:

If you or someone you know is interested in the position and would like to apply, please send your resumé and a 500-word sample article on a core Unificationist belief or tradition to Sungmi Holdhus at sholdhus@unification.org. The article should include at least one citation of church scripture and one credible non-church source. Refer to familyfed.org/blog for example blog articles.
