Peace Festival Update

On 2 May in Birmingham, a joint Peace Festival organised by UPF, FFWPU, WFWP, and the Ismaili community brought together around 40 children and their families in a joyful, welcoming environment that fostered friendship, respect, and cooperation through creative activities and shared experiences. The event grew out of ongoing interfaith relationships, particularly through Sulhiya and her family, and strengthened collaboration between communities while highlighting the importance of marriage, family values, and peacebuilding. Overall, the festival created a strong sense of unity and spiritual connection, laying a solid foundation for continued partnership and future interfaith initiatives.

River South Community

Seventeen members attended the CARP core gathering at River South Peace Embassy on 3 May, where a new structure for CARP London was introduced, including a semester-based volunteer system. The meeting featured an inspiring message, engaging discussions, and a brief visit from Bogdan and the Angeluccis'.

North England Community

On Wednesday, 6 May, the Bolton team, through consistent daily witnessing, welcomed several new guests for interactive games.

Three more advanced guests will begin fall education this week, as the team continues to balance building trust with delivering meaningful teaching, which they believe is an approach to success.

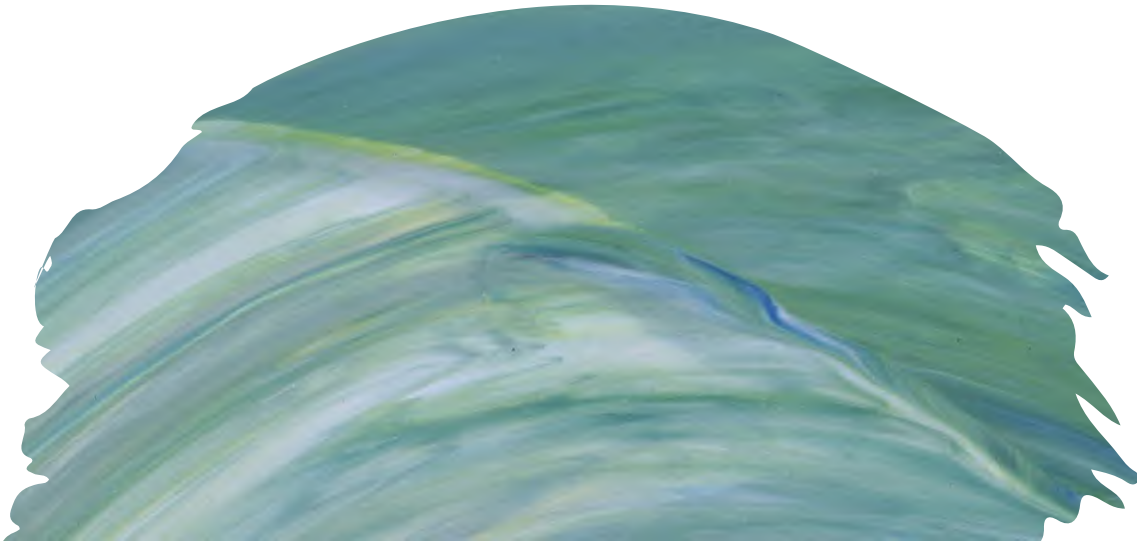

North England Community

Four new guests joined the team at the Peace Centre on Saturday, 9 May, supported by five local second-generation members.

The enthusiasm of the local youth has been especially inspiring, as they actively participate in witnessing and support UPA team projects and activities.

River South Community

The Sunday Service at the Peace Embassy on 10 May featured meaningful testimonies from Holy Week in Korea, offering inspiration to attendees. The gathering also included a joyful celebration of May birthdays, fostering a warm and unified community atmosphere.
