The Best Thing Since Sliced Bread

During a recent discussion at the head office, we explored ways to make our work at FFWPU more accessible. Some of our staff members expressed that they are not sure at the moment how to talk about our movement and community with their friends.

In bullet points: This is how Bogdan explains why he is passionate about our movement and community.

- The Family Federation for World Peace and Unification is a global movement dedicated to building lasting peace by strengthening families.
- We believe that peace doesn't start at the level of governments. Peace begins at home, with each individual and within the family.
- The family is our first school of love, shaping how we relate not only to one another but to our communities and the wider world. In that sense, family relationships are more foundational than nationality, religion, or political affiliation.
- At the same time, we recognise that human effort alone is not enough to create families rooted in true, enduring love. That's why we emphasise connecting to God's love and guiding principles as the source of harmony and growth.
- Through educational programmes, community support, and the Marriage Blessing, the Family Federation supports individuals and couples of all backgrounds in building strong and loving families.
- The Blessing - initiated by the True Parents - helps couples anchor their relationships in God's love, enabling them to grow into true parents who can positively impact their families, their communities, and ultimately the world.
