Dear Family and Friends,

As I write to you from Seoul, with True Mother detained in circumstances that should never have happened, my heart turns to you, our family. Every day I am here I am thinking about you, feeling compelled to keep you up to date. I like to be straightforward with you, but I still can't fully express how I feel.

I still cannot believe this is happening. Meanwhile I've been receiving messages from all types of members from all over the world, asking what they can do to help True Mother. Even members who don't consider themselves members are reaching out.

In the middle of this, as I looked across the Han River today, I found myself remembering something very simple, yet very deep. I hope it is helpful for you.

In True Parents' home in Hannam-dong, there is a large bathroom with a dedicated make-up area. That's where True Mother would fix herself up in the mornings before greeting members. But outside the bathroom in the hallway is an upholstered armchair with a small table. I was wondering, why? It seems like a clunky place to leave an armchair and table. So I asked Margie Moon, and she said, "This is where True Father used to sit and eat his breakfast or read scripture, while True Mother was doing her make-up."

When I heard this, I had to stop. I have never heard of any man setting up an office to read scriptures and eat his breakfast in the hallway just to wait for his wife.

And since True Father's ascension, whenever True Mother stayed over at Hannam-dong, she would sit down next to Father's chair, alone in the hallway, and eat breakfast next to his chair. I believe she did this with Father in spirit - remembering their life together, and thinking of the future together.

Father and Mother loved each other so deeply, we cannot imagine. And now, with our Mother detained in such awful circumstances, I want us all to ask the question: What would Father do?

This instilled in me a desire to reach out to all members worldwide. Active, non-active, it's not even important right now. I just want to leave you with this: Come home. We need you. Please, search your heart and ask: What would Father do?

“Freedom of religion is not for the sake of one religion alone. It is to allow all people to find the path to God and live together in peace. When one faith is suppressed, the whole of humanity suffers. ”
