A Community Where a Culture of Practical Ministry Takes Root

Last week, I shared with you about the scenes of hope that I witnessed during my tour of Heavenly Africa. Seeing young members of our second generation newly appointed as leaders, and witnessing young people growing responsibly at the center of their faith communities, I could clearly see the bright future of the African continent. Most especially I emphasized that blessed families and young people who possess pure faith and passionate hearts are the genuine “heavenly diamonds” of that land. My message reaffirmed that when we view one another as treasures of heaven, encourage each other, and grow together, our families and communities will naturally transform into mission areas filled with hope.
