The Great Epic of the Chosen Han People of Korea: Fulfilled through Our Lives

Over the past three weeks, we have reflected together on why we must learn about The Great Epic of the Chosen Han People of Korea, what we are called to discover within it, and how the universal values of filial devotion (hyo) and heartfelt affection (jeong) become the very heart of God's providence to save humanity. Today, as we bring this journey of learning to its conclusion, let us consider together how we can overcome the painful providential reality now before us, and how we can substantially establish Cheon Il Guk—the kingdom of true love—within our own families.

World Peace at Work

Matthew saw with his own eyes the love his Japanese mother invested into his American grandmother, and how that love not only allowed her resentment towards Japanese people melt away, but melted her other racial prejudices as well. The Blessing is all about peace in practice.
